FINN-RED PEACE CLIMAX NEARS

STOCKHOLM, March 9 (INS)—Russo-Finnish peace negotiations today reached what Swedish authorities described as their "final stages," but while international maneuvering involved every major capital in Europe, costly slaughter continued on Finland's fronts.

A major development of the day was a call on Elias Erkko, Finnish minister in Stockholm, by Sir Edmund Monson, the British minister.

Some reports said peace talks would open soon in Tallin, Estonia, or Riga, Latvia, and rumors suggested an armistice over this weekend.

FINNS FEAR "MUNICH"

Yet so stern was the Soviet attitude—in spite of Moscow's fears of Anglo-French intervention—and so fearful were the Finns that an armistice now would amount only to another "Munich," that rejection of Moscow's proposals loomed as a strong possibility.

Russia, it was understood in Stockholm, insists that the terms of peace must be settled before an armistice may be declared and fighting stopped.

Finnish government leaders were represented as feeling that their republic would be a second Czechoslovakia; that if the Mannerheim line of defenses were surrendered, within a few months, when weather conditions will be favorable, Russia will seize Finland by force.

According to information in Stockholm, the Finns asked for an

U. S. Envoy In Peace Moves

MOSCOW, March 9 (INS)—Intense diplomatic activity—presumably related to Russo-Finnish peace negotiations—centered today on the American embassy and Swedish legation.

Nearly every ambassador and minister in Moscow's diplomatic corps either called on or telephoned to both headquarters, it was learned.

Positive evidence of American activity in the interest of Russo-Finnish peace was seen today in moves of Laurence A. Steinhardt, United States ambassador.

While comments were lacking, it was noted that Steinhardt called at the Kremlin shortly after visiting the Swedish legation.

The ambassador was closeted for two hours with Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov—alone save for a single interpreter.

Hitler's Talk Holds Europe Fate; Pope To See Nazi Envoy

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, March 9—With Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop en route to Rome, the stage was set today for some possibly momentous declaration of great consequence in Europe's two wars when Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler delivers a speech to the nation tomorrow.

The depth to which all of Europe's problems will be probed during the next few days was indicated by the announcement at the Vatican that von Ribentrop will be received by Pope Pius at 9 a. m. Monday.

Hitler's envoy and the Pontiff are expected to canvass the whole field of German relations with the Holy See, including Vatican's concordat with Poland. Reliable sources here said full agreement has been reached between the Vatican and Nazi Germany and that adequote provision has been made to cover Polish Catholicism in a new concordat.

HITLER FINN VIEWS?

Thus the scheduled reception of von Ribentrop was looked upon as tantamount to a rapprochement between Germany and the Vatican, whose relations have long been strained.

Hitler will make an address, an official announcement said, as part of the annual Heroes' Day ceremonies in Berlin.

While there was no advance indivation as to the nature of his talk, yesterday's diplomatic developments on all diplomatic fronts led to belief that some statement bearing on the Russo-Finnish conflict as well as Germany's war against the Anglo-French allies might be anticipated.

Probably at the very moment his trusted foreign minister is in conference with Premier Mussolini and Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano in Rome, the fueh-

REDS CLOSING ON VIIPURI AMID MOVES FOR PEACE

HELSINKI, March 9 (AP)—The Finnish high command admitted today that the Red army driving across the frozen bay of Viipuri had secured "a restricted foothold on the northwest shore of the bay" and captured some islands.

The battle continued with undiminished intensity in the midst of efforts from outside to find a basis for Finnish-Russian peace.

The advance of the Russians on the northwest shore of Viipuri bay produced a grave threat to Viipuri's coastal communications with the rest of Finland, menacing the Finnish defenders of the city from behind.

CLAIM SUCCESSES

To the east of Viipuri, the army announced, "all enemy attacks were repulsed," with the Russians suffering loss of men and "at least 18 tanks and several guns."

Extensive Finnish successes along the eastern front were reported at the same time.

PLANES SHOT DOWN

The army said a Russian detachment, whose size was not given, was "completely annihilated" at Lavajarvi, that the Russians again lost "a large number of men" in furious but fruitless attacks throughout yesterday at Kollaanjoki, and that at Kuhmo, below the nation's narrow "wasp waist," the Finns captured some Russian positions, "Much booty and 125 prisoners."

For the third successive day the high command told how the Finnish air force bombed and machine-gunned Russian forces seeking to beat their way across the ice of the bay of Viipuri.

Besides the troops, it said, there were columns of trucks, sledges and tanks. Six Russian planes were reported shot down.

There was no official comment on the reported peace negotiations but the communique showed clearly that the overtures had brought no let-up in the fighting.

Divorcee Mum Over Motive in Slaying

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 9—A strangely tight-lipped Wife No. 1 today defied efforts of authorities to learn a motive for the spectacular gunplay which ended in death for Wife No. 2—Mrs. Richard C. Burleson, 55, mother of a Boston banker and well-known in Greater Boston society.

Mrs. Burleson, the former Isabelle Riese and widow of Frank W. Knowlton, Sr., Boston and Weston (Mass.) attorney, was shot to death in the fashionable Jefferson Hotel cafeteria. Wife No. 1 is socially prominent herself, a linguist and artist.

Jailed after hours of futile grilling by police was the neatly attired Mrs. Mae Mazie Walker Burleson, 51, member of a prominent Galveston, Tex., family, who had named the former Weston society matron in her unsuccessful fight to prevent Col. Richard C. Burleson of the U. S. army from divorcing her in 1938.

"I don't remember," or "I can't tell you," were the only answers she gave to questions from police and army officers.

BENT ON REVENGE

Police said the woman apparently had been bent on avenging a fancied grievance. They disclosed she had been in a mental hospital three times during the past year, also revealed a telegram which police said had been sent from the first to the second Mrs. Burleson.

The wire, received by the former Mrs. Knowlton shortly after she married the army officer in Honolulu in May, 1938, read:

"Mrs. Knowlton, with all you took because I was too sick to defend my home against you and even though you sent my mother to her grave in grief, you could not take the many years this day gave to me.

"You can never take them. The wicked flourish like the green bay tree. May God have mercy on your soul." It was signed "Mrs. Burleson."

Diners were startled when the woman, clad in black suddenly appeared in the restaurant, and fired

BURLESQUE QUEEN ROBBED OF GEMS

Blonde and beautiful Sally Keith, burlesque star, was robbed of $2500 worth of jewelry by two bandits who trapped her in the third-floor corridor of a downtown hotel today.

Miss Keith was roughly handled by the gunmen as they hurled her against a wall of the staircase seized her by the shoulder, and menaced her with a revolver until she had surrendered two rings from her fingers.

In their haste the dapper stick-up men made no attempt to take the $1500 mink coat the blonde actress was wearing nor did they show any interest in the costumes and fur pieces valued at $5000 kept in the girl's room.

The holdup was executed with such precision and silence that other guests and employes did not learn of the robbery until the bandits had escaped through a rear door.

Harvard Grad, Society Girl Elope to N. H.

Although their wedding had been announced for spring, Miss Constance Gahm and Alexander Fairfield Wadsworth, both of Cambridge, slipped off to Newington, N. H., today and were married.

The ceremony uniting the couple was performed at Kenwood Manor by the Rev. Maxwell Ganter, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church at Newington.

Engagement of the couple was announced last November by the bride's mother, Mrs. Maude W. Gahm of Cambridge.

The bride is a graduate of Choate School and the Lee School, while the bridegroom was graduated from Harvard in 1931, and later from the Harvard Business School. He is a member of several Harvard clubs and societies.

He is the son of Philip Wadsworth of Boston and the late Mrs. Amory Wadsworth of Milton.

Moore, Cape Finder Of Stars, Dies at 42

Raymond Moore, 42, widely known founder of the Cape Playhouse, summer theatre, died of a cerebral shock in a New York hotel early today.

He founded his Cape theater in 1926 and during its career many of the present stars in films and legitimate stage got their start with him.

Bette Davis, Newton girl, now one of Hollywood's biggest names, started her career as an usher in Moore's theater.

The theater itself, which brought Moore fame and attracted thousands of summer visitors to its doors, is a remodeled church. Moore was in New York arranging for this summer's productions when he was stricken.

He was born in Baltimore and attended Johns Hopkins and Leland Stanford Universities. He was an artist and had an early flair for show business.

His first wife was Mrs. Edna Tweedy Moore, heiress to a $10,000,000 lumber fortune. She died in 1936. His next wife was Mrs. Marianne Heath Schultze Moore, who was a nurse in a Hollywood hospital where he underwent an operation.

They ere divorced last year after stormy court scenes.

After launching his playhouse enterprise, Moore built a moving picture theatre and was planning next season to erect a chain of ultra smart shops for summer visitors.

DEATH LEAP—With her last act a lipstick scrawl on her Detroit hotel room wall reading "Exit Smiling," Mrs. Geraldine Bourque, model and mother of an eight-year-old daughter, leaped 17 stories to her death. In her room police found a note professing love for a radio executive.

GIRL SAYS SHE GAVE CONWAY 'JOB FUND'

Declares He Told Her It Was for Connolly

William T. Conway, alleged "good will fund" collector for former Clerk of Suffolk Superior Civil Courts John Patrick Connolly, asserted definitely and directly he was going to give Connolly money paid by girl employes to hold their jobs, it was testified today.

The testimony was given by Miss Marguerite W. "Peg" Kennedy, long-time worker in the Suffolk court clerk's office.

She was under rigorous cross-examination in Suffolk superior criminal court, where Connolly and Conway are on trial, charged with extortion and conspiracy.

CLASHES MARK TRIAL

Miss Kennedy said she handed over to Conway money she had been ordered to collect from her girl associates in Connolly's office.

Conway told her, "I'm going to give it to the clerk," she testified.

Today's court session, held on a Saturday by agreement of counsel, members of the locked-up jury and Judge George F. Leary, was marked by frequent clashes between Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle and Atty. Herbert F. Callahan, representing Conway.

Doyle repeatedly took exception to Callahan's re-statements of testimony previously given.

"That's a deliberate misstatement," flared the district attorney on one occasion.

Judge Leary called for order and urged that proceedings be conducted without further friction.

TELLS OF $1650 FUND

Atty. Callahan hammered hard at Miss Kennedy's direct testimony that Conway gave her a list of eight girls in the office who were to be asked to pay a total of $1650 for the "privilege" of holding their positions.

Q—Well, I take it you spoke to the girls about this money before you got the list? A—I got the list before I spoke to them. I couldn't speak to them before. I didn't know which ones were to be asked.

Q—Isn't it a fact you made this list yourself? A—No.

Q—Was it in typewriting or handwriting? A—In handwriting.

Q—Whose handwriting? A—Mine. I wrote it down in order to remember the names given me by Mr. Conway.

WROTE DOWN LIST

Q—Well, the fact is you weren't given a list, in the form of a paper? A—No, sir. Mr. Conway came in on different days and spoke to me of different girls. I felt I should make a list.

Q—Didn't you make the list as a result of your suggestion to Mr. Conway that you thought these girls would be willing to contribute? A—No, sir.

Q—You're quite sure of that? A—Yes, whenever I spoke to a girl it was under Mr. Conway's direction.

Q—When was the first time you told anyone Mr. Conway said he gave money to Mr. Connolly? A—I don't recall.

Q—You gave this money to Mr. Conway on different days. Well, when was it he said he gave it to Mr. Connolly? A—Well, he said he was going in to the clerk.

Q—As a matter of fact he did not say he gave money to the clerk, did he? A—Yes, he did. He took the money and he said, "I am going to give it to the clerk."

In her earlier testimony, Miss Kennedy told of paying $200 to hold her own job and of collecting $300 and $200 from two other girls.

TWO OTHERS REINSTATED

At the same time, two other women testified that they paid $250 to be reinstated on jobs they had held at the clerk's office for many years.

The pair were Miss Mary Cunningham, a clerk for 20 years, and Miss Louise V. Crowley, sister of the late Police Supt. Michael H. Crowley, who had been employed for 16 years.

Miss Kennedy earlier had testified she had been entrusted with raising $1650 from eight girl workers in the office. The girls and the amounts they were to contribute she listed as follows: Mary Brogie, $250; Martha Friel, $300; Gertrude Cotter, $200;; Mae Brophy, $200; Catherine Gibbons, $200; Mary Hill, $100; Lillian Griffin, $200, and Ann Pugh, $200.

Rope Death Probed in Charlestown

Announcing an inquest would be held, authorities today further investigated the death by strangulation of Edward R. Auld, 26, of Chapman st., Charlestown, who died after being trussed up by his father and brother.

The two men, Robert F. Auld, 60, a railroad clerk, and his son, George J., 24, were questioned by Lieut. Patrick O'Donnell at Charlestown station and released. No charges were preferred against either.

Heartbroken by the tragedy, the father told police that his son, father of a three-year-old child, came to the house intoxicated after a heated quarrel with his wife, Mrs. Helen Auld, in his own home. He walked through the kitchen, the older Auld said, and darted into the back yard.

There, police quoted the father, Edward began demolishing his mother's car, using his fists and rocks to smash the windows.

Calling a younger son, George, Auld rushed out into the yard and attempted to prevent Edward from damaging the car or inflicting any injury on himself.

Unable to persuade him to stop, they overpowered him and, tying him up with a clothesline, began to carry him back into the house.

"As we reached the kitchen, I noticed a peculiar, dark look in his face," police said the elder Auld told them.

"I couldn't understand what caused the trouble. The only time he was ever troublesome was when he was drinking. But there had been nothing between us before he came to the house."

Commuters on Old Colony Prepare for Revised Service

Thousands of commuters today prepared for readjustments in their work-a-day lives after the Public Utilities Commission approved a new schedule which provides a greatly curtailed service over lines operated by the Old Colony R.R.

The railroad, it was also announced, will reopen service to 25 stations beginning Monday.

On June 24, seven other stations, located on Cape Cod, will be reopened.

But on March 31 an entirely new schedule, providing drastically reduced service for 55 stations, will go into effect.

The action was described by officials as a frank effort to offset a petition for complete abandonment, which is scheduled to be heard Monday by the Interstate Commerce Commision.

Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Burke Sullivan will appear before the ICC to request a postponement of the hearing on the New Haven Railroad's trustees' petition to reorganize and abandon the Old Colony.

Called the "interim minimum service plan," the new schedule is expected to effect a saving of $500,000 annually and reduce the road's deficit to a point where other interests might step in.

Under the new schedule, service will start Monday to the following points:

East Foxboro, Bird st., Boylston st., Blue Hill ave., Caryville, Charles River, Clicquot, Dorchester, Dover, East Braintree, Fairmount, Farm st., Forest Hills, Harvard st., Jamaica Plain, Medfield Junction, Medway, Millis, Morton st., Mt. Bowdoin, Mt. Hope, Plimptonville, River st., Uphams Corner and West Medway.

SEEK BETTER SERVICE

Arthur E. Whittemore, chairman of the Old Colony Commuters and Shippers' League, while expressing gratification that a possible shutdown of the road had been averted, indicated his group would fight for better service to Brockton and Middleboro.

The public utilities commission emphasized, however, that the reduced schedule ordered is "not to be construed as a permanent limitation of the frequency and type of service' in the terrritory involved.

The decision, for example, reduces week-day stops at the Wollaston station, from 42 to 27 for southbound trains and from 39 to 26 on northbound trains. The same is true for Quincy. At Braintree, stops are reduced from 51 to 30, southbound, and from 50 to 27, northbound.

Minimum service ordered by the Utilities Commission by March 31 is contained in a series of timetables at the end of the 42-page order. The timetables apply to the lines between Boston and Braintree, Boston and Greenbush, Boston and Plymouth, Boston and Middleboro. The tables, however, are all subject to adjustment for operating and traffic reasons.

CAPE LINE

In a further order, summarized in a table accompanying this account, the Public Utilities Commission ordered that during the summer season, from June 24 to Sept. 7, the road must furnish passenger train service between Boston and Hyannis and Woods Hole, about the same as furnished last year. Approximate times are given in the table.

The following stations are listed at which the summer trains must stop for permitting passengers to board and to alight: Holbrook-Randolph, Brockton, Bridgewater, Middleboro, Wareham, Onset, Buzzards Bay, Sandwich, West Barnstable, Barnstable, Yarmouth, Hyannis, Monument Beach, Pocasset, Cataumet, North Falmouth, West Falmouth, Falmouth, and Woods Hole.

BOSTON AND BRAINTREE

In its decision on the line which now has half-hourly service the decision orders that half-hourly service be maintained during the commuter or heavy hours and that there be hourly service the remainder of the day.

WEST QUINCY

On the West Quincy branch two trains are provided, one that leaves West Milton at 7:49 a. m. and another at 8:23 a. m. On the return there is one train that leaves Boston as 5:47 p. m.

BOSTON AND GREENBUSH

On the Boston and Greenbush line the order provides for trains to leave Boston at 6:15 a. m., 4:40, 5:15 and 5:50 p. m. that go to Greenbush, and then one that leaves Boston at 9:35 p. m. that goes to Hingham. There will also be gas-rail service from Braintree to Cohasset, leaving Braintree at 9:55 a. m., 11:55 a. m., 1:45 and 3:45 p. m.

On the return on that line, northbound, steam trains will leave Greenbush at 6:49, 7:23, 7:52 a. m. and 6:20 p. m., and one will leave Hingham at 8:57 a. m. The gas-rail service from Cohasset to Braintree will leave Cohasset at 10:25 a. m., 12:25, 2:15 and 4:15 p. m.

BOSTON AND PLYMOUTH

On the Boston-to-Plymouth line trains will leave Boston at 5:46 a. m., 4:35 and 5:20 p. m. for Plymouth. Trains will leave Boston at 12:15, 5:47 and 9:35 p. m. for Whitman. There will also be gas-rail servive. They will leave Braintree for Whitman at 10:55 a. m. and 2:45 p. m., and Braintree for West Hanover at 12:55 and 4:45 p. m.

Northbound on that line, steam trains will leave Whitman at 6:55 a. m. for Boston, and also at 1:33 p. m. Steam trains will leave Plymouth for Boston at 6:56 a. m., 7:30 a. m., 7:10 a. m. The gas rail service will leave Whitman at 9:25 a. m., 11:25 a. m. and 3:15 a. m. to connect at Braintree. It will also leave North Abington at 1:23 p. m. to connect at Braintree.

BOSTON AND MIDDLEBORO

On the Boston and Middleboro line traing will leave Boston at 6 a. m. and 5:25 p. m. that will go to Campello; and trains will leave Boston at 8:20 a. m. and 5 p. m. that will go to Buzzards Bay and then Hyannis and Woods Hole, and one that will leave Boston for Middleboro at 5:55 p. m.

Northbound trains will leave Middleboro at 6:38 a. m. Campello at 7:27 a. m., Woods Hole at 6:30 a. m. and 4 p. m.; and Hyannis at 7:39 a. m., and another train that will leave Brockton at 7:02 p. m.

FARM HAND SLAYS SCHOOL TEACHER WHO SPURNED HIM

SHELBYVILLE, Mo., March 9 (AP)—Disappointed in love, a farm hand killed Mrs. Ethel Dingle, a school teacher, with a shotgun, and fled by automobile and on foot into dense woods, north of here.

Sheriff Elmer P. Threlkeld identified the slayer as Hadley Eaton, about 32, a former suitor of the 30-year-old woman.

Firing eight times the assailant killed Mrs. Dingle as she sat in an automobile preparing to leave the grade school shortly after 4 p. m. yesterday, slightly wounded her companion, Mrs. Merritt Keith, also a teacher, and grazed the arm of School Supt. Clell Ledford. Ledford was in another car with W. C. Hewitt.

The sheriff, his deputies and state patrolmen trailed Eaton to the wood, but because of darkness and the nature of the terrain delayed a search until after daylight.

The state patrol reported hearing a shot from the wood—between the villages of Plevna and Epworth—but there was no explanation of it.

Mrs. Dingle was shot in the head, the charge shattering the windshield of the car.

Eaton, who had not lived in the vicinity recently, was driving a car with 1940 Illinois license plates issued in Galva, the patrol said. His father lived in Shelbina; his mother is dead. A sister was reported to live in the area in which he took refuge.

Mrs. Sam Varner, who lives near Plevna, told Sheriff Threlkeld she saw a man stop his car near their home late in the day, don overalls and snowshoes, shoulder a gun and walk down a country road.

While the shooting was the subject of conversation of many groups on street corners, last night, there was no evidence of intense feeling in this northeast Missouri county seat town.

HALF-MILLION FUND LEFT TO POET HERE

A trust fund of a half-million dollars was bequeathed to Stewart Mitchell, Marlborough st., Back Bay, editor and poet, by Mrs. Georgine H. Thomas, New York widow who died last month, "to enable him to continue his writing without interruption," it was revealed here after the filing of her will.

Former editor of the New England Quarterly, Mitchell has had several books of verse published.

The residue of Mrs. Thomas' estate, which was valued only at "more than $20,000," was left to Radcliffe College, along with remainder interests in a $500,000 trust and other trusts.

The Massachusetts Historical Society was left $50,000 with the understanding it be known as the Stewart Mitchell Fund when it doubles itself.

A $50,000 trust was left to Lorenia and Clara Goshorn, Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital.

Plan Rites for Father of 30

HAZARD, Ky., March 9 (AP)—Hence Colwell, 71, whose three wives bore him 30 children, 15 of whom are living, died today. He had been ill several weeks with a stomach ailment.

Two of the children—Twentieth and Thirtieth—were named for the numerical order in which they were born.

It was Twentieth, now a man of about 35, who made arrangements for funeral services today.

Colwell was known familiarly hrough the Southeastern Kentucky hill country near here as "White Hence." His third wife survives.

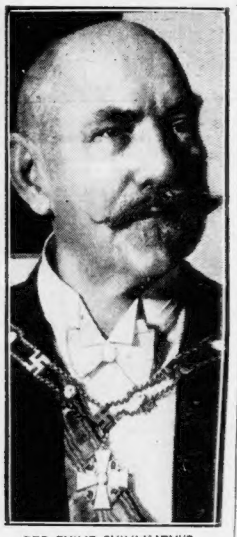
Hit, Run Driver Picks on Police Car

A hit-run driver today picked on a police cruising car and escaped with a bad scare.

Patrolmen John Mulligan and Thomas Johnson of the Roxbury Crossing station were questioning a driver in the Fenway when the anonymous operator crashed into their patrol car.

Britain, France Set To Speed Finns Aid

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—The governments of Britain and France gave increasing indications today that they are considering greater aid to Finland if current peace negotiations fail to end the Russian invasion.



PER EVIND SVINHUFVUD
Finn 'Mystery Man'

The controlled press in Paris predicted the Allies would agree to send an expeditionary force if Finland gave the word.

High British quarters made it apparent that the London government wanted no Finnish "surrender."

PLAN TO SPEED AID

The French cabinet devoted a two and a half hour session largely to the Finnish-Russian war and the accompanying diplomatic struggle of the great powers, most crucial of Europe's two interwoven wars.

While official secrecy cloaked deliberations known to have been held in London—meetings of the war cabinet are secret—it was known that the British government was giving the situation similar consideration.

Almost with one voice, the British press demanded that British and French aid be given to Finland on the largest possible scale, if Finland should find Russia's peace terms unreasonable and unacceptable.

As the German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, sped to Rome on a mission which British diplomatic commentators interpreted as a move to make Italy a more active partner in the western war, it was announced here that Lord Halifax, British foreign minister, had conferred yesterday with Giuseppe Bastiannini, Italian ambassador.

DOUBT TRIPLE ALLIANCE

The conference was at the invitation of Lord Halifax and was said to be concerned mainly with the dispute over Britain's blockade of Italian coal purchases from Germany.

It was indicated, however, the talks extended beyond this to the entire sphere of British-Italian relations.

Informed sources expressed skepticism that Italy would be swung into any triple alliance with Germany and Russia against Britain and France—a scheme which the Laborite Daily Herald said was one of the German minister's objectives in Rome.

The fate of Czecho-Slovakia was recalled as a warning to Finland to shun any "peace without honor" in the Russian conflict.

The Liberal News-Chronicle called this week-end "one of the most critical of the war," and said Sweden was "pressing the Finns to 'appease' Russia in precisely the same way that England and France pressed Dr. Benes (President of former Czecho-Slovakia) to appease Germany in September, 1938."

Welles in Last Talks in Paris; New Peace Hint

PARIS, March 9 (INS)—Sumner Welles, American under-secretary of state, began his final round of consultations in Paris today in the midst of reports the visit of German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop in Rome concerned prospects for peace between Germany and the Allies, as well as between Russia and Finland.

Welles discussed world economic problems for nearly two hours with Paul Reynaud, French finance minister. He then talked with leaders of the Polish government in exile. Earlier he received Ambassadors Souza Dantas of Brazil and Miguel Angel Carcano of Argentina.

Von Ribbentrop, according to Genevieve Tabouis, authoritative writer in L'Oeuvre, who has close conections with the French foreign office, went to Rome to compare notes on Welles discussions in Rome and Berlin.

These questions, according to Mme. Tabouis, will be under survey in Rome:

1—Will Britain make peace even though Hitler remains in power?

2—Are equality of rights for Italy and Germany included in the plans of the newly-formed Franco-British international trade organization?

3—What is to be done about redistribution of colonies after the war?

300,000 Britons Register for Duty

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—Approximately 300,000 young Britons registered today for military service.

Then included two groups of conscripts, those who reached the age of 24 last year and those who had become 20 since Jan. 1. Britain's conscripts now roughly total 1,300,000.

Mussolini Orders Pay Boost, Cost Curb

ROME, March 9 (AP)—The central co-operative committee presided over by Premier Mussolini ordered general 10 to 15 per cent wage increases today to meet rising costs of living.

Prices, estimated to have risen more than 25 per cent since the outbreak of the war, were ordered blocked at their present levels.

DRAMATIC U. S. MOVE FOR PEACE SEEN NEAR

WASHINGTON, March 9 (INS)—The possibility of some dramatic, "eleventh hour" American move to aid a Russo-Finnish peace was not ruled out by officials here today, although they denied report after report from Europe that America already had intervened as a peace-maker.

After a 24-hour period in which almost every European capital had contributed reports or rumors that President Roosevelt's special envoy, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, was seeking to, or had been asked to, aid in conciliation, a high-ranking government official made these categoric statements:

1—The United States has not—through Welles or otherwise—taken any part in the current negotiations to end the Russo-Finnish war.

2—No European nation has asked the United States to mediate between the two warring countries.

Privately, however, correspondents were warned not to leap to the conclusion that because nothing had been done that nothing would be done.

Nazis See British King Moving to Canada Soon

BERLIN, March 9 (INS)—British "society clubs" are discussing secret plans to transfer entire administration of the British Empire to Canada, the Nazi newspaper Der Angriff declared today.

Under these plans, Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper said, King George will reside in Ottawa and the cabinet sit at Montreal, with Vancauver serving as a naval base and the Great Lakes region as the Empire's industrial center.

These steps are being considered, Der Angriff said, because the British Isles lack food and raw materials.

"But transfer to Canada won't save plutocratic England from destruction," Der Angriff concluded.

armistice last week in the early stages of the Swedish-directed negotiations, but the request was refused.

REDS MAY EASE TERMS

Russian circles in Stockholm, on the other hand, insisted that Moscow took no intransigeant attitude. Soviet quarters said that under certain conditions the demand for Hanko Peninsula can be dropped and certain islands in the vicinity be substituted as a Russian naval base.

Moscow's demand for Petsamo, on Finland's narrow Arctic coast, also is not imperative, these sources said.

The Finns, wary lest peace be short-lived were reported holding out for maintenance of the frontiers as they existed before the war, also reparations for the damage done by Russian artillery and airplanes to Viipura and other cities.

Direct peace negotiations, according to reliable reports, may begin today in Stockholm between Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, Soviet minister to Sweden, and Juho Paasikivi, former Finnish premier.

2 U. S. Destroyers Slide Down Ways

KEARNY, N. J., March 9 (AP)—The United States Navy's two newest destroyers, the Kearny and Plunkett, slid down the ways today at the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co.

Costing more than $5,000,000 each, the vessels are similar to the U. S. S. Hammann, which was clocked at more than 39 knots on a trial run last summer. The new vessels are the 10th and 11th destroyers to be launched at the Kearny plant.

rer will speak in the famous old Berlin armory on the Unter den Linden.

Present in Berlin at the time or en route to Rome will be Pehr Evind Svinhufvud, former president of Finland, whose arrival in the German capital yesterday served to emphasize Germany's interest in cessation of hostilities on the Russo-Finnish front.

Svinhufvud, in an audience with von Ribbentrop yesterday, asked Germany's good offices in obtaining reasonable peace terms for Finland from Soviet Russia as requested steps to forestall what he considered the imminent possibility of Allied intervention in Scandinavia.

Considerable importance was attached by observers here to the movements in Berlin of a group of Soviet experts headed by Commerce Commissar Tevoscian, who tonight will entertain German dignitaries at the Soviet embassy.

WEIGH EUROPE'S FATE

Observers in Berlin saw all recent events pointing toward the final phase of the Russo-Finnish conflict with the next few days expected to decide the whole immediate future of northern Europe.

A definite German answer to the appeal and proposals of Svinhufvud appeared to have been delayed by the sheer weight of international diplomatic moves under way on all sides, with Rome, Berlin and Moscow all feverishly engaged.

Svinhufvud was received with significant promptness by van Ribbentrop when the Finn arrived yesterday, and it was believed that he would have an audience with Hitler today.

An ominous, rather than peaceful note, was sounded in connection with Ribbentrop's Rome trip in Air Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's Essen National Zeitung.

DECISIVE MOVE NEAR

"Von Ribbentrop," the paper said, "is going to Rome at a moment when close relations between Italian and German interests havebeen re-established because of the Italo-British coal controversy.

"Neither Paris nor London will harbor the illusion that Europe is now witnessing the last scene in the history change.

"The press t personal exchange of views is taking place after several months of winter calm, at the end of which the world faces a decisive phase."

Ribbentrop Asked for Audience With Pope

ROME, March 9 (INS)—The all-embracing nature of German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop's forthcoming visit to Rome was emphasized today with disclosure that he has requested an audience with Pope Pius.

(Editor's note: Reuter's agency said the audience had been granted for 9 a. m., Monday.)

Spokesmen at the Holy See interpreted this request as an indication of German willingness to attempt a "better understanding of religious problems."

There was no immediate confirmation in Rome of Berlin reports that a new concordat had been reached between Germany and the Vatican, but Vatican observers saw a decided improvement likely in the status of Polish Catholics, a matter frequently urged upon Germany by the Holy See.

SENATE ACTION AWAITED ON HUGE FARM MEASURE

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The nation's farmers, told by President Roosevelt last night that they had not yet reached the goal of economic and social justice, watched the Senate appropriations committee today to see whether it would approve a proposed multi-million dollar increase in the annual farm appropriation.

Late yesterday, a sub-committee jolted the Congressional economy drive by raising the appropriation to $958,000,000—some $211,000,000 more than the amount voted by the House—and by providing that an additional $100,000,000 of agricultral outlays should be financed by loans.

Leaders of a bi-partisan bloc from the farm states predicted that this program would be approved by the full committee today. The committee's O. K. would send the measure on to the Senate for action Monday.

Enactment of the enlarged appropriation would offset the bulk of the cuts, totaling nearly $300,000,000, which Congress has made in the President's budget estimates in an effort to avoid imposing new taxes in this election year.

Mr. Roosevelt told the legislators early in the session that $460,000,000 of new levies should be imposed to finance "emergency" defense expenditures.

The President, who recommended a farm appropriation some $67,000,000 larger than that passed by the House, broadcast to dinner meetings of farmers in the agricultural states last night on the seventh anniversary of the inception of the New Deal farm programs.

MAID SAVES 6 IN FIRE AT DEDHAM HOME OF PHILIP LORING REED

A cool-headed maid prevented possible tragedy at the palatial residence of Philip Loring Reed in Dedham today when the second fire in 24 hours swept through the $75,000 home.

Awakened by smoke, Catherine Gillespie quickly aroused three other maids, then sped down to the second floor, where the debutante daughter of the wealthy industrialist, Sally Reed, 18, was asleep.

Miss Reed in turn ran to a bedroom and rescued her two young brothers, Howard, 12, and Nathaniel, 9.

Reed, who recently defended successfully a $50,000 suit brought against him by Mrs. Ione Nugent, New York "social and business spy," for alleged breach of contract, has been vacationing in the South for the past month with Mrs. Reed.

They were expected back tonight.

A general alarm was sounded by Fire Chief Henry J. Harrigan after he arrived at the scene.

Meanwhile, Miss Reed, who is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club, had joined the maids in making several hurried trips from the flaming house with jewelry and other valuable articles.

Firemen worked almost to dawn before they could bring the flames under control. The top floor of the three-story house was gutted.

The first fire was caused by defective wiring. It was believed the wires had continued to smoulder for hours before rekindling.

In Framingham, meanwhile, firemen extinguished a spectacular $25,000 fire which swept the sheds of the Farm Service Co., located in the yards of the Boston & Maine R. R. in Waverly st. Destroyed hay and grain constituted principal damage.

Patricide to Face Trial 25 Years After Crime

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 9 (AP)—Chester B. Duryea, who slew his wealthy father in Brooklyn a quarter of a century ago, was declared sane today by Supreme Court Justice Davis.

The court ordered his release from Matteawan state hospital to stand trial for the killing. Duryea, who is 69, was committed to the institution after the slaying of Gen. Hiram Duryea. He began his fight for release two months ago.

'CLOUD PASSED AWAY'

The court ordered Duryea returned to Kinks County for trial and ruled that if heis acquitted of the 26-year-old first degree murder charge by reason of insanity, the jury verdict must state this fact.

The court may then recommit him to an insane asylum "if his discharge be deemed dangerous to the public peace or safety."

Duryea testified at the habeas corpus hearing that "the cloud passed away" a few yearsago, and he was willing to stand trial. Eminent psychiatrists testified for and against his release.

General Duryea, who commanded a regiment of ouaves in the Civil War and grew wealthy in the starch manufacturing business, was a distinguished figure in New Yorkc society. He had been brevetted a brigadier general by President Lincoln.

"ANGELS" TOLD HIM KILL

Shortly after Dawn on May 5, 1914, police were summoned to his Brooklyn mansion. They found the 81-year-old general shot many times, his 43-year-old son giving voice to strange gibberish.

"I got a message from Washington to do it," the son said.

He was a tall, weakly handsome man, big nosed and with a receding chin, a pouting lower lip.

"We were whirling about in the air when it happened," he mumbled, "and the bullet went through my chest and through father.

"He was whirling high when he fell. I kissed him before I shot him. Angels told me to do it."

But Chester was unwounded and his father apparently had been shot as he slept. So they trussed the son up in a straightjacket after a brief stay in the Raymond street jail in Brooklyn and in the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital.

Garner May Get Coast Backing

WASHINGTON, March 9 (INS)—Vice-President John N. Garner may win the powerful California delegation to the Democratic national convention by default as a result of a split in Roosevelt forces in that state.

This was disclosed today when eight of the 12 Democratic House members and Senator Sheridan Downey declined to join a Roosevelt slate headed by Gov. Floyd B. Olsen to be entered in the May 7 California Presidential primaries.

Olsen, who is threatened with a recall election in California, has been keeping the wires hot with pleas for the Democrcats in Congress to allow their names to go on a Roosevelt slate he is preparing.

At the same time, third term strategists here are pressing former Senator William Gibbs McAdoo and George B. Creel to prepare another Roosevelt slate.

Sen. Wheeler Not To Compete Here

Montana's Democratic Senator Burton K. Cardinal to Miss Spellman Service

Because of an attack of bronchitis, William Cardinal O'Connell, Boston's archbishop, cannot officiate next Tuesday at the ceremony in New York at which Archbishop Francis M. Spellman is accorded the sacred pallium in New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Announcement that Cardinal O'Connell would not preside was made by the chancery office of the Catholic Archdiocese of New York.

Cardinal Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia, will take the place of Cardinal O'Connell, under whom Archbishop Spellman served as auxiliary bishop prior to his elevation to the New York post.

The investiture ceremony falls on the feast day of Pope Gregory I, known as "Gregory the Great," and also marks the first anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XII, who at his first consistory in Rome on Dec. 11, 1939, conferred the pallium on Archbishop Spellman.

A special prayer for the Pope and a prayer for universal peace will be included in the pontifical mass. The Pope, who consecrated Archbishop Spellman in Rome, Sept. 8, 1932, had himself been consecrated a bishop by Pope Benedict XV in the vestments to be worn by Archbishop Spellman in Tuesday's investiture.

GIFT OF POPE

Cardinal Pizzardo, an assistant at Archbishop Spellman's consecration in Rome, received the vestments as a gift from the Holy Father, and the cardinal gave them to Archbishop Spellman. The present Pope wore them again when he visited Archbishop Spellman in Newton a few years ago as cardinal secretary of state. Archbishop Spellman has presented the vestments to Fordham University in remembrance of the present Pope's visit to that institution.

Cardinal Dougherty, who will give the blessing before the last gospel, will go to the altar at the conclusion of the gospel. When vested, Archbishop Spellman will kneel before Cardinal Dougherty and renew his oath of allegiance to the Holy See.

The cardinal will then kiss the pallium and give it to Archbishop Spellman, who will kiss it, after which the cardinal will place it on the archbishop and fasten the three pins on each shoulder and the back.

WORN ON NECK

The pallium, a circular band about two inches wide, is worn about the neck, breast and shoulders. A pendant hangs in front and behind.

At the close of the mass Archbishop Spellman will be vested with full pontifical mass vestments, including boskins, slippers, amice, alb, cincture, pectoral, cross, tunic, dalmatic, chasuble, maniple, ring, mitre and crozier.

The special prayer to be offered for peace follows:

"O God, from Whom are holy desires, right counsels, and just works; give to Thy servants that peace which the world cannot give, that our hearts may be disposed to obey Thy commandments and the fear of the enemies being removed, our times, by Thy protection, may be peaceful, Through Our Lord."

a bullet through her handbag into the back of Mrs. Burleson, seated alone at a table.

SHOOTS SECOND TIME

Walking calmly in front of the victim, she fired a second shot into Mrs. Burleson's chest. Then, she readily surrendered.

Mrs. Burleson, who resided in Weston many years, was the mother of Frank W. Knowlton Jr., of Brookline, banker; Cadet William A. Knowlton of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point; and Robert A. Knowlton, Washington newspaperman.

Her first husband, who died in 1932, was formerly moderator at Weston, and also served on the water board.

A brother of the slain Mrs. Burleson, George W. Riese, lives in Highland ave., Arlington Heights.

He said today:

"I haven't seen my sister for a year and a half. She was visiting here at that time.

"Only four days ago, however, I received a postcard from her. She wrote that she was well and happy and was planning a little trip.

"I never knew the first Mrs. Burleson nor anything about her. News of my sister's death came as a terrible shock to me."

Col. Burleson, formerly stationed in Boston, is a nephew of former Postmaster General Albert Sidney Burleson. He now is artillery section advisor of the Sixth Division of the Army.

"I SHALL SLEEP WELL"

During police questioning, the Texas society woman smoked cigarettes chain fashion.

Told at one point that she was excused for later questioning, she said:

"I shall sleep well."

Although she had said in her telegram to Mrs. Burleson that her mother was in "her grave," she told police after her surrender that her mother is Mrs. J. C. Walker of Galveston, and asked them to send for her.

Clad in an expensive wool crepe dress and close-fitting back sailor hat and black coat, she wore a locket which contained a picture of herself and Col. Burleson. They were married 26 years ago, and were divorced in April, 1938, after a series of bitterly fought court contests.

On the witness stand in San Saba, Tex., in 1936, she testified Col. Burleson took her as an unwilling guests to parties at the home of Mrs. Knowlton in Weston.

She further told the court her husband had bluntly told her he had wanted to marry Mrs. Knowlton when he obtained a divorce.

Col. Burleson on the other hand testified that "she has destroyed me body and soul." At the time, he pictured his wife as "a very beautiful girl" he had met at a West Point dance a score of years before.

"When I married her, I thought I loved her, but love had ceased after 20 years of married life," he then stated.

Elections were being held today in 10 Eastern Massachusetts towns—Raynham, Cohassett, Duxbury, East Bridgewater, Halifax, Hanson, Lincoln, Norwell, Pembroke, and Whitman.

900 Take Police Sergeancy Test

Routine of Boston's police was disrupted today as 900 patrolmen, seeking promotion to the rank of sergeant, took an eight-hour civil service examination at Girls' High School, West Newton st.

Danger of the department finding itself undermanned because of the large number taking the examination was averted, however, when night sergeants as well as many night patrolmen were ordered to do double duty during the day.

The examination consisted of 35 questions, five to be answered in the morning. In the afternoon, following a recess, the patrolmen were to write on any five of the remaining 30 questions.

To avoid possibility of the questions "leaking out" before hand, Civil Service Commissioner Ulysses J. Lupien took them in a sealed envelope to the State House. Under his direction the questions were then mimeographed. He later took them himself to the high school.

FULL HOUSE EXPECTED AT HULL TOWN MEETING

A "full house" was expected at the Hull town meeting today as the result of a lively disagreement over a ballot recount involving Selectman Clarence V. Nickerson, seeking his 11th term, and John G. Clark, newcomer to the political field.

More than 500 taxpayers, it was learned, will be on hand to listen to the arguments of Nickerson who defeated Clark by a margin of four votes and the latter who charges the Board of Registrars did not have legal certification of signatures on the recount petition.

Hundreds of citizens swarmed around Town Hall last night as the board debated Clark's objections for several hours before deciding to leave the ballot boxes sealed and call a meeting today.

The contest has been one of the liveliest staged in the community in recent years.

Hundreds planned to come hours ahead of time today in order to get best seats in the hall where they will be able to see the recount first hand.

Judy Kidnap Plot 'Hoax'

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (AP)—A 19-year-old youth has admitted police say, that what was feared to be a plot to kidnap Judy Garland, young film star, was nothing but a figment of his imagination.

Police Psychiatrist Dr. Paul De River says that Robert Wilson, transient youth held on suspicion of kidnaping, told him that he "just wanted to meet" the young actress.

Wilson was arrested Thursday night after officers said he telephoned police that Miss Garland would be kidnaped. De River stated Wilson admitted that "a guy named Foster," with whom he insisted he had plotted the kidnaping, was fictitious.

TO CATCH UP, GET TOMORROW'S SUNDAY ADVERTISER

This contest is conducted by the Boston Record and American, and a new puzzle appears each weekday from Monday through Saturday. (You can follow the contest in either paper.) Tomorrow, however, to help late starters enter and catch up, all puzzles to date will be reprinted in the Sunday Advertiser.

In the meantime, try your hand at solving Puzzle No. 24 below.

How to Solve a Rebus Puzzle:

For a quick, simple illustration of how you solve these puzzles, let's assume you were asked to solve a puzzle like this:

HORSE minus ROSE plus OT equals a 4-letter word.

In solving this puzzle you would cross out the letters R, O, S, E from the word HORSE, leaving you merely the letter H. To that you would add OT, giving you the word HOT as your solution.

TODAY'S PUZZLE COMPLETES 4th SERIES

Today's puzzle completes the Fourth Series in this Rebus Game, and a handy ANSWER FORM for this Series is provided in the lower right hand corner of this page. In other words, you can transfer your solutions for Puzzles 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 and today's Puzzle No. 24 on to this Answer Form and merely send in the Answer Form without the puzzles themselves. Or you can send in the puzzles themselves with the solutions filled in on each one.

Each puzzle represents a WORD, and you figure out that word by adding and subtracting the letters given and the letters in the names of the objects pictured. An illustration is printed above Puzzle No. 24 at the right.

In solving these puzzles remember that the letters you finally have left should without re-arranging, spell out the word you're looking for—and that word should fit, one letter to each blank square, in the solution diagram following the equal sign.

PUZZLE No. 24

Your answer to this puzzle, together with your solutions to the five other Rebus Puzzles appearing from Mon., March 4, to Sat., March 9, inclusive, should be brought or mailed to the Rebus Editor, Boston Record-American, P. O. Box 2058, before Midnight, Sat., March 16, together with 10c in coin. In return for remittance, contestants will receive a special set of puzzles at the close of the contest.

THE RULES

1. The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all Nine (9) residents of the New England States, except employees of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2. Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each weekday in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, c/o The Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3. One hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4. In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles, and if necessary a second, third or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American tied contestants may be required to the tie-breaking puzzles, without assistance, in the offices of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In cases of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5. In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, The Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6. Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest, participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7. Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications, lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the Contestant.

USE CONVENIENT ANSWER FORM AT RIGHT TO SUBMIT SOLUTIONS TO PUZZLES Nos. 19 - 24 (4th. SERIES)

Solutions in this contest are to be submitted in series of six—that is, the six puzzles appearing from Monday through Saturday of each week. After you have submitted your first four series and are up to date, continue by submitting each succeeding series within the week following its publication in the Record and American.

A convenient way to send in your answers is by using the Answer Form printed each Saturday, like the one at the right. By transferring your solutions to this Answer Form you need not send in the puzzles themselves. Please be sure, however, to be accurate in copying your answers, making certain that your Puzzle No. 19 answer is on the No. 19 line, etc., etc.

ENCLOSE 10c IN COIN

10c in coin must accompany each series of six answers to qualify your entry for a prize. Contestants will receive a special set of entertaining Rebus Puzzles in return for remittances at the conclusion of the contest.

TRAFFIC COP

Dear Editor—I wish you would send somebody to watch the flow of automobile and pedestrian traffic through Dewey Square in front of the South Station during the early evening rush hour. Thousands walking across Atlantic ave. to enter the terminal get no protection from the traffic policeman nosually on duty there. He keeps the cars rolling and never signals them to stop until after the crowd has poured into the street blocking them. The pedestrians have to risk their lives to stop traffic and get across. Then the policeman blows his whistle to hold up the cars.

Dear Editor—I was interested in the story about "Ideal Mate" being divorced. That man is far from my ideal of a mate. Mine doesn't have to be tall, dark and handsome but I do demand some intelligence and good manners. This jitter-bug age is producing moronic mates. But then, I'm getting on.

PIG IN A MINE FIELD

Dear Sir—I have invented a scheme so the Russians can advance through the Finn mine fields without loss of a man. 80-Cent Cut in Tax Rate in Milton Seen

A slash of 80 cents in the 1940 tax rate for Milton was predicted today by Chairman Paul F. Studley of the warrant committee.

His forecast was based on acceptance of the committee's recommendations by town meeting members, who were considering 1940 appropriations amounting to $1,482,422.19. This is $21,377.75 less than 1939 appropriations, Studley said.

Queen of Swing Stars at Globe

Burlesque's queen of swing, Joan Lee, whose baby blue gaze denies the sophistication her daring, original dances suggest, is proving one of the Globe's most popular attractions this week.

Joan Lee

Her weirdly beautiful Oriental dances are different from anything yet introduced at the Globe which specializes in novel entertainment.

Other charmers featured in the current traveling burlesque show's large cast are June Marshall, Vilma Jozsy and Cleo Canfield.

For laughs, there are Jack Greenman, Johnny D'Arca, Milton Frome, Ned Marshall, Arthur Ryan and Irving Benson. Spotted specialty acts include the College Singing Stars, Jean Larue, the Panchos and the Dervish Duo.

Screen attractions are "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse" and "Beloved Brat."

Hollywood Paragraphs

—By LOUELLA O. PARSONS—

HOLLYWOOD, March 9—Life for Ruby Keeler has really opened up since her separation from Al Jolson. In her divorce complaint Ruby charged her "Mammy" singing husband gave her an inferiority complex. Even though Al's friends were bitter against that charge Ruby has certainly done much better in her career since her separation.

Soon she leaves for New York to do a musical with her ex-bridegroom and Martha Raye, and when she returns she'll check in at Paramount for "Follow Through," the golf picture, which now has Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Ruby and Paulette Goddard in the cast lineup.

Paramount had a brilliant idea putting this foursome in a golf story. All are expert golfers and have played tournaments together at Lakeside and other courses. They even whipped up a little skit on this game for a newspaper benefit and it went over big.

You'll have to pardon Ann Sothern if she smiled just a bit when she checked in at the Warner Brothers lot yesterday for the Eddie Robinson picture "Brother Orchid." The last time she walked into the Burbank Studios she walked out—if you know what I mean.

Eleven years ago she was on this lot and under the name of Harriet Lake played with Dolores Costello in "Hearts in Exile." She was considered very bad in the picture and was given her walking papers. She admits Warners were right.

Now, after 11 years, she's in the star's dressing room playing the feminine lead with Eddie, and she wouldn't be human if it didn't give her a thrill of satisfaction.

One of the hardships the current war in Europe has wrought on Hollywood producers is their inability to get their own money out of England. Sol Lesser, rumored as having half a million in London, is taking the bull by the horns, so to speak, and sendinf William Cameron Menzies to the Denham studios to produce "The Adventures of Tom Jones," an English novel by Henry Fielding written in 1749—one of the first novels ever to be published. This is probably the beginning of a trek to England by other producers in an effort to invest some of this idle money.

GRADE-A GLAMOUR---HEDY LAMARR---FOR MET'S SRCEEN

TALENTED TRIO — Shirley Ross, Jack Haley and Marta Eggert are the stars of "Higher and Higher," new musical coming to the Shubert Tuesday night. Wight Deere Wiman is the producer and Rodgers and Hart the composers.

Co-Stars With Spencer Tracy

Grade-A glamour comes to the Metropolitan screen next Thursday in the person of Hedy Lamarr (than which there is no whicher in Hollywood), who is co-starred with talented Spencer Tracy in "I Take This Woman."

This, by the way, is the picture that was started more than a year ago, was put aside because of story problems and was finally made with W. S. Van Dyke directing.

It is the story of a social butterfly who, after a wrecked romance, finds her real love and happiness at the side of an earnest scientist working for the public good in a tenement district. Action ranges from fashionable night clubs to the tenements.

The studio has provided elaborate settings, including the Zebra Club, its pillars formed by huge carved zebras; a lavish fashion show with beautiful models in gorgeous gowns; penthouses and other typical bits of New York.

Miss Lamarr is reported to wear some of the most exotic gowns that ever came out of Cinemaland.

The second feature, "The Man From Dakota," is the picturization of MacKinlay Kantor's best-selling novel, "Arouse and Beware," with Wallace Beery as Sergeant Bartow, colorful shoulder who is much more interested in keeping his stomach filled and heading West than in rejoining his regiment.

John Howard plays his idealistic young superior officer, Lieutenant Clark. Dorolea Del Rio has the role of the Russian girl Jenny

EYE-BOUND—Spencer Tracy and Glamour Girl Hedy Lamarr find each other's eyes attractive in "I Take This Woman," opening next Thursday at the Metropolitan.

Cohan Brings New Show To Colonial Next Month

Activity in the George M. Cohan department took a spurt the other day in two sectors.

From Broadway came word that the Yankee Doodle boy will open at the Colonial on April 15 in "Return of the Vagabond," a sequel he has written to "The Tavern."

Coincidentally, it is reported from the coast that Metro has purchased the 18-year-old Cohan musical comedy, "Little Nellie Kelly," in which they plan to star Judy Garland.

Elizabeth Hines and Charles ding co-starred in it on Broadway in 1922, after a four-month Boston engagement. Cohan wrote all of it music, lyrics, book.

YOU SAID IT! IN THE MAIL

WITH SOUL SO DEAD

Dear Sir—I just made out my income tax return. Breathes there a man on labor bent who doesn't work for the government?

THOMAS B. CROLLE

TRAFFIC COP

Dear Editor—I wish you would send somebody to watch the flow of automobile and pedestrian traffic through Dewey Square in front of the South Station during the early evening rush hour. Thousands walking across Atlantic ave. to enter the terminal get no protection from the traffic policeman usually on duty there. He keeps the cars rolling and never signals them to stop until after the crowd has poured into the street blocking them. The pedestrians have to risk their lives to stop traffic and get across. Then the policeman blows his whistle to hold up the cars.

R. L. Mc.

ROOM AND BOARD

Dear Sir—The newspapers said recently the Coast Guard will protect the Queen Elizabeth in New York. I think that's a lovely cheerful way to use American taxpayers' money.

JOHN VITROL

IDEAL MATE

Dear Editor—I was interested in the story about "Ideal Mate' being divorced. That man is far from my ideal of a mate. Mine doesn't have to be tall, dark and handsome but I do demand some intelligence and good manners. This jitter-bug age is producing morone mates. But then, I'm getting on.

NEARING FORTY.

Dear Sir—Ideal mate, my eye! The ideal mate is affectionate only in his own home and with his own family.

GRACE BURRILL.

YOU MEAN WHATSHISNAME

Dear Sir—What ever became of that fellow—you know the one I mean, he was at the courthouse for a while—they gave him a banquet and he had something to do—I think he had something to do with the jail. The police are looking for him. Oh, the devil, I can't think of his name!

JUST CURIOUS

FEST PICTURE

Dear Editor—You can have my vote for the best picture of the year right now—that laughing baby in the telephone company advertisement.

ALTON JENKINS, ATTLEBORO.

(Ed. Note: Photographer Stiffan of the American won second prize in the best news picture of 1940 with his airplane shot of the airplane crash at the Wasp launching.)

PIG IN A MINE FIELD

Dear Sir—I have invented a defense so the Russians can advance through the Finn mine fields without loss of a man. The idea is to get big herds of pigs and drive them out ahead of the troops to thus waylay the triggers exploding the mines. I do not want any remuneration. What do you think of the idea. H. K. DODIS.

80-Cent Cut in Tax Rate in Milton Seen

A cash of 80 cents in the 1940 tax rate for Milton was predicted today by Chairman Paul F. Studley of the warrant committee.

His forecast was based on acceptance of the committee's recommendations by town meeting members, who were considering 1940 appropriations amounting to $1,482,422.19. This is $21,377.19 less than 1939 appropriations, Studley said.

WOMAN ON DOLE STARVES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 9 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Zurko Saxon, 61, on relief, died of starvation, her doctor said today. Relief officials said Mrs. Saxon, her husband and a daughter had been living on $14 a month and milk allowance.

'Queen of Swing' Stars at Globe

Joan Lee

Other charms featured in the current travel burlesque show's large cast are June Marshall, Vilma Jozsy and Cleo Canfield.

For laughs, there are Jack Greenman, Johnny D'Arca, Milton Frome, Ned Marshall, Arthur Ryan and Irving Benson. Spotted specialty acts include the College Singing Stars, Jean Lainé the Panchos and the Dervish Duo.

Screen attractions are "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse" and "Beloved Brat."

Appear at Jamaica, Egyptian Theaters

Direct from an extended engagement at Manhattan's Kit Kat Club the Jones Boys tomorrow come to the stages of the M and P Jamaica and Egyptian Theaters, in Jamaica Plain and Brighton, respectively. The Joneses at both matinee and evening performances at these popular neighborhood houses on Sunday only.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 9—Life for Ruby Keeler has really stirred up since her separation from Al Jolson. In her divorce complaint Ruby charged her "Mammy" singing husband gave her an inferiority complex. Even though Al's friends were bitter against that charge Ruby has certainly done much better in her career since her separation.

Soon she leaves for New York to do a musical with her ex-bridegroom and Martha Raye, and when she returns she'll check in at Paramount for "Follow Through," the golf picture, which now has Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Ruby and Paulette Goddard in the cast lineup.

Paramount had a brilliant idea putting this foursome in a golf story. All are expert golfers and have played tournaments together at Lakeside and other courses. They even whipped up a little skit on this game for a newspaper benefit and it went over big.

You'll have to pardon Ann Sothern if she smiled just a bit when she checked in at the Warner Brothers lot yesterday for the Eddie Robinson picture "Brother Orchid." The last time she walked into the Burbank Studios she walked out if you know what I mean.

Eleven years ago she was on this lot and under the name of Harriet Lake played with Dolores Costello in "Hearts in Exile." She was considered very bad in the picture and was given her walking papers. She admits Warners were right.

Now, after 11 years, she's in the star's dressing room playing the feminine lead with Eddie, and she wouldn't be human if it didn't give her a thrill of satisfaction.

One of the hardships the current war in Europe has wrought on Hollywood producers is their inability to get their own money out of England. Sol Lesser, rumored as having half a million in London, is taking the bull by the horns, so to speak, and sendinf William Cameron Menzies to the Denham studios to produce "The Adventures of Tom Jones," an English novel by Henry Fielding written in 1749—one of the first novels ever to be published. This is probably the beginning of a trek to England by other producers in an effort to invest some of this idle money.

GRADE-A GLAMOUR---HEDY LAMARR---FOR MET'S SRCEEN

TALENTED TRIO — Shirley Ross, Jack Haley and Marta Eggert are the stars of "Higher and Higher," new musical coming to the Shubert Tuesday night. Wight Deere Wiman is the producer and Rodgers and Hart the composers.

Co-Stars With Spencer Tracy

Grade-A Glamour comes ... Metropolitan screen next Thursday in the person of Hedy Lamarr. She's what, more or less, in Hollywood, who is costarred with Spencer Tracy in "I Take This Woman."

The lady she was in the picture that was shot over more than a year ago, was put to the use of many problems and was finally remade with W. S. Van Dyke directing.

It is the story of a social butterfly who, after a wrecked romance, finds her real love and happiness at the side of an earnest scientist working for the public good in a tenement district. Action ranges from fashionable night clubs to the tenements.

The studio has provided elaborate settings, including the Zebra Club, its pillars formed by huge carved zebras, a lavish fashion show with beautiful models in gorgeous gowns; penthouses and other typical bits of New York.

Miss Lamarr is reported to wear some of the most exotic gowns that ever came out of Culver City.

The second feature, "The Man From Dakota," is the presentation of MacKinlay Kantor's best-selling novel, "Arouse and Beware," with Wallace Beery as Sergeant Barstow colorful soldier who is much more interested in keeping his stomach filled and heading West than in repairing the treatment.

John Howard plays an idealistic young superior officer, Lieutenant Clark. Dolores Del Rio has the role of the Russian girl Jenny. Elizabeth Hines and Charles

EYE-BOUND—Spencer Tracy and Glamour Girl Hedy Lamarr find each other's eyes attractive in "I Take This Woman," opening next Thursday at the Metropolitan.

Cohan Brings New Show To Colonial Next Month

Activity in the George M. Cohan department took a spurt the other day in two sectors.

From Broadway came word that the Yankee Doodle boy will open at the Colonial on April 15 in "Return of the Vagabond," a sequel he has written to "The Tavern."

Coincidentally it is reported from the coast that Metro has purchased the 18-year-old Cohan musical comedy "Little Nellie Kelly," in which they plan to star Judy Garland.

Cohan costarred in it on Broadway in 1922, after a four-month Boston engagement. Cohan wrote all of it — music, lyrics, book.

Here Comes The Bride

By BETTY ALDEN

OLD MAN WINTER still has a snowy, though somewhat worn and soiled clutch upon our streets and sidewalks . . . yet spring is having a little pre-view inside the Church of the Redeemer, Chestnut Hill, this afternoon . . .

Lilacs and bright spring flowers simulate the month of June for Mary Amory Eliot who is becoming the bride of Grafton Fay, son of Mrs. Edward H. Fay of Milton . . .

The tall, attractive bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Eliot of Chestnut Hill, is wearing traditional bridal satin with a long full train and carrying a bouquet of white lilacs . . .

A bevy of nine pretty girls, all gowned in pink taffeta with long sleeves, square necklines and full skirts of mist gray marquisette, precede the bride down the aisle . . . Their headdresses are short gray veils and their bouquets of vivid spring flowers . . . The group is headed by Anne Eliot, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and eight bridesmaids, Oliva Ames, Lucy Cochrane, Jane Pickman, Joan Shaw, Isabel Farley, Mary Althea Eldredge of Glen Cove, L. I. Mrs. Francis W. Sargent, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. S. Parkman Shaw, Jr. (Susan Storey), of Philadelphia . . .

Abbott Fay is attending his brother as best man and the ushers include Harry Draper, Nelson S. Bartlett, Jr., Joseph O. Proctor, 3d., James A. Roberts, Henry R. Watson, Jr., Henry R. Bailey, Horace C. Bailey, Edward H. Fay, B. Loring Young, Jr., and Francis W. Sargent . . .

The reception is taking place at the Eliot home where the bride's mother is receiving in a gown of periwinkle blue chiffon with a directoire coat of blue grosgrain and a matching hat . . . Following a honeymoon in Bermuda the couple will live in Boston . . .

Dramatic Affect Features Ceremony

TRUE TO EXPECTATIONS Babette Morison's wedding to Dr. David Weir in the Everett Hale Chapel yesterday was a bit different as well as impressive . . . A most unusual and dramatic affect was achieved . . . After the guests arrived all the lights were extinguished and the dignified little chapel was in darkness except for a soft beam of light flodding from the ceiling, falling on the bridal party grouped about the chancel . . .

A profusion of white snapdragon formed a perfect background for the brilliant cardinal red and chartreuse gowns of the attendants, and each pew was marked with white tupips. . . .

Another innovation at the wedding was a car tagging stunt . . . evidently to make sure who got into who's limousine during the excitement of leaving the church . . . A white card a foot square inscribed "Bridal Party-Bride and Groom" "Bridesmaids" and "Parents" was tied to each of the limousines . . .

Guests present to heap best wishes upon the happy couple included Mrs. Francis W. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Leland, Mrs. William Dana Orcutt with her son, Philip Orcutt, Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, Mrs. John Bottomley and many others . . .

You Can Be Beautiful

Perfume Vial For Bag

BY ARLINE GOULD

OF COURSE you are going to have a new bag for Easter. It may be a gayly colored suede pouch, or a smart black patent one swinging from your belt . . . but whatever purse you choose, we hope you will include among its contents something we have always wished we could carry conveniently.

And that is a vial of lovely perfume. We do have practicaly all the ingredients for glamour tucked compactly into our handbags today . . . even to pads loaded with cleansing lotions, but it has never been practical to carry perfume, which is to costly to let leak away, and which is always in danger of breaking.

Now, at long last, and just in time for Easter gifts, comes a most attractive quarter-ounce bottle of perfume with a famous name, in six delightful odors, encased in a smart leather kit. Its top of plastic screws firmly on, so that you don't waste its sweetness on the lining of your bag, and there is little danger of breakage with this protecting jacket.

Another wonderful advantage of this new container is that you can safely tuck it into your travelling bag when you whip off on a weekend. You know that the tragedy of having a whole bottle spill all over your best clothes. That's the best way I know to ruin a hard-earned cruise.

This good-sized vial, moreover, contains one of the best products in the perfume market . . . one that has stood the test of time and is not, just a one-year fad. The new bottle in its leather case costs only $1.50 . . . and we suggest that you toss a hint at the boy-friend so that maybe it gets tucked into your corsage.

One of Boston's department stores has this gift, cellophane encased and gayly packaged for Easter. Call Arline Gould at LIBerty 4000, weekdays, except Saturdays, or write her enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope for the whereabouts of it.

Alumnae Mass At St. Brigid's

Birthday Tea Tomorrow

The Junior League of the Women's Italian Club will celebrate its 20th anniversary tomorrow with a cocktail tea at the Hotel Myles Standish.

Co-chairman, Ruth G. Fasano and Philomena Caputo, have planned several outstanding features for the affair, including the selection of "Miss Italian Junior League." Ella Fiorentino will furnish the entertainment.

Among the guests will be Mrs. Joseph A. Tomasello, president of the Women's Italian Club; Mrs. Joseph Bruno, Mrs. Marguerita Mussolino and Mrs. Frances Galassi, senior advisor to the league.

Vera Bruno, president of the league, will preside. Included on the committee are Ruth Aieta, Helen Bertolami, Beatrice Bruno, Iola DiPietro and Mary Luchette.

Smart Set Fashions

Hoods Invade All Fields

By ANNICE BRINK

LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD would be in the height of fashion if she stepped out of the pages of fable today, for we are going in for flattering hoods in a big way.

At the recent dog show in Madison Square Garden in New York, where the smartest sportswomen gather with their pedigreed pups, the prevalence of hooded costumes was the outstanding feature noted by the fashion scouts.

Last season, and for several past, we have had these attached bonnets on our evening wraps. Then they began to appear on ski costumes. This season they invade all the fields, and we find hoods on every type of garment from beach robes, such as Ginger Rogers' (in illustration) to gold lame dinner dresses.

Hoods may be practical or decorative, and are often both. We have seen a tan wool sports coat with a detachable hood that buttons closely under the chin, very practical for striding on a windy beach.

Personally, we don't go for the hood in the city. We prefer a simple sports hat. For country wear, there are some grand wool plaid jackets that boast a hood, but it takes looks and good carriage to wear them.

Some of the new hooded frocks, however, are slick. They give you either an ingenuous, youthful look a madonna face, depending on the type of dress. Joyce Arling, in "Worth A Million" wore an adorable grey dress with trimming of scarlet, with a most becoming hood turned back over her blonde hair.

The most practical use of hoods still is, to our mind, for the evening wrap. They protect your coiffure from dampness and breezes, and they are warm. We are just incoherent about a soft blue velour coat, hanging very full from a square shoulder yoke to the floor, and with a softly draped hood to top it off.

GINGER ROGERS pulls a lemon-yellow hood over her coppery curls as she dons her new robe after a swim in her Hollywood pool . . . the material in it resembles the old-fashioned candlewick bedspread . . . the front is gathered at shoulder seams, and the sleeves are boxed square at the shoulders.

STRING BEANS WITH MUSHROOMS

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use Institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

INGREDIENTS

2 lbs string beans
½ lb. fresh mushrooms
1 c. minced onion
1½ tsp. salt
½ c. water
3 tbsp. salad oil
½ tsp. granulated sugar
Speck pepper
½ c. top milk or cream

METHOD OF PREPARATION

Cut the string beans crosswise into 1" pieces, and wash. Add mushrooms, which have been washed and sliced, onion, salt, water, salad oil, and sugar. Cover, and cook over low heat until tender—about 30 min. Add remaining ingredients; heat well, and serve. Serves 6. To serve 2 or 3, make half this recipe. One 4 oz. can mushrooms may be substituted for the fresh ones. In using, brown lightly in 2 tbsp. butter or margarine; add to cooked beans.

SERVE with broiled lamb chops, grapefruit salad and ice-box cake for dinner.

Love

Most Tolerant Of Husbands

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

What is your opinon of a husband who is not a bit jealous of his wife, no matter what she does in his presence, at a party, a dance or even in a night club? She can spend all her evening dancing, drinking and talking with other men, and enjoy herself, and then go home with her husband without hearing a word of complaint from him.

He's just the opposite. He'll drink a little, smoke and talk with his men friends. Would you call him a loving, devoted husband, or doesn't he care for his wife? Do you think a jealous husband has more love for his wife than the one mentioned above? When this woman goes out alone, some other man usually escorts her home, and she tells her husband about it. Can this be real love? EVE.

Sometimes husbands act in the manner you describe, though I've never known of one to go quite so far and still be absolutely convinced of the fidelity of his wife. Again, husbands are tolerant because they're "crazy" about their wives, and know if they object, the domestic charmer will leave them.

Home and Kitchen

Left-Overs Are Useful

BY MARTHA LEE

IN EVERY REFRIGERATOR there are left-overs and left-overs. Some you can tuck in the refrigerator with impunity, sure of a good way to use them in a day or so. Take a few slivers of chicken, for instance, or left-over leg of lamb.

You know you can add peas and pimiento to a cream sauce with the chicken and serve a dressy chicken a la king. And the leg of lamb can be diced and used in a meat and vegetable pie. But when it comes to something like mashed potatoes, you are likely to overlook the fact that they can be used for something besides potato cakes.

So we know you'll welcome this new way of using them as a topping for a quick cottage pie. Just revive them with a little hot milk then top a casserole full of meat and vegetables with them as suggested here:

QUICK COTTAGE PIE

1½ to 2 cups diced left-over meat (lamb, beef, pork or veal)
2 tbsp. butter
3 tbsp. flour
1 medium (16 oz.) can vegetable soup
Left-over mashed potatoes

Brown the meat in the butter and add the flour, blending well. Add vegetable soup and cook, stirring constantly until thick and boiling. Pour into a baking dish or casserole and cover with a layer of left-over mashed potatoes that have been made fluffy again by heating up with a small amount of hot milk. Brown in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) about 15 minutes.

CHICKEN A LA KING

2 cups medium white sauce
1 cup cream
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1 green pepper, minced
3 tbsp. butter
1 pimiento, cut in thin strips
2 cups diced cooked chicken
Salt and pepper
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
Buttered toast

Prepare sauce with 1 cup milk and 1 cup chicken stock, add cream and bring to a boil. Saute mushrooms and green peppers in butter 10 minutes, stirring frequently; add with pimiento and chicken to sauce, season to taste with salt and pepper, and simmer about 5 minutes; stir in egg yolks and cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Serve at once on hot toast or rusks; or serve in patty shells. Makes 8 servings.

MEAT SHORTCAKE

Baking Powder Biscuits
1½ cups medium white sauce
Butter
½ cup left-over gravy
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 cups diced, cooked beef, veal or lamb

Prepare biscuits and make. Just before serving split and spread with butter. Prepare white sauce, stir in gravy and Worcestershire sauce, and bring to a boil, adding milk or water if too thick; add meat and heat thoroughly. To serve, cover bottom halves of buttered hot biscuits with creamed meat, place other halves on top and cover with remaining creamed meat. If less meat is used garnish with two hard-cooked eggs, sliced. Makes six servings.

MEDIUM WHITE SAUCE

2 tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour
1 cup milk, rich milk or light cream
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper

Melt butter and stir in flour; gradually stir in milk and stir until mixture boils and thickens, then cook about 3 minutes longer, stirring occasionally; add seasonings. Place over hot water to keep hot and cover tightly to prevent crust from forming on top.

Prize Problem

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A girl bought two tickets for a raffle. She gave one ticket to the girl friend who accompanied her to the raffle. This friend (who did not pay for her ticket) won the prize. Should she keep the prize or give it to the girl who invited her and paid for her ticket?

I. Z. C.

I think that the girl who won the prize should have kept it. The girl who gave her the ticket for the raffle should have taken the point of view that when she gave her the ticket, she gave her also the chance of winning the prize.

Make Spring Curtains

THEY'RE EASY TO FASHION

Delightfully springlike are these ruffled curtains of plain and flowered voile, gaily bordered with lace in a ruffling design.

You make them easily and inexpensively, too—using a shimmery blue voile for the ruffles, white voile flowered in shell pink and blue for the curtain itself. Or would you prefer yellow dotted voile and apple green?

The two lower flounces you cut 12 inches deep, 2 inches of which is allowed for overhang. The top flounce you make 14 inches deep—allowing for a rod casing and frill.

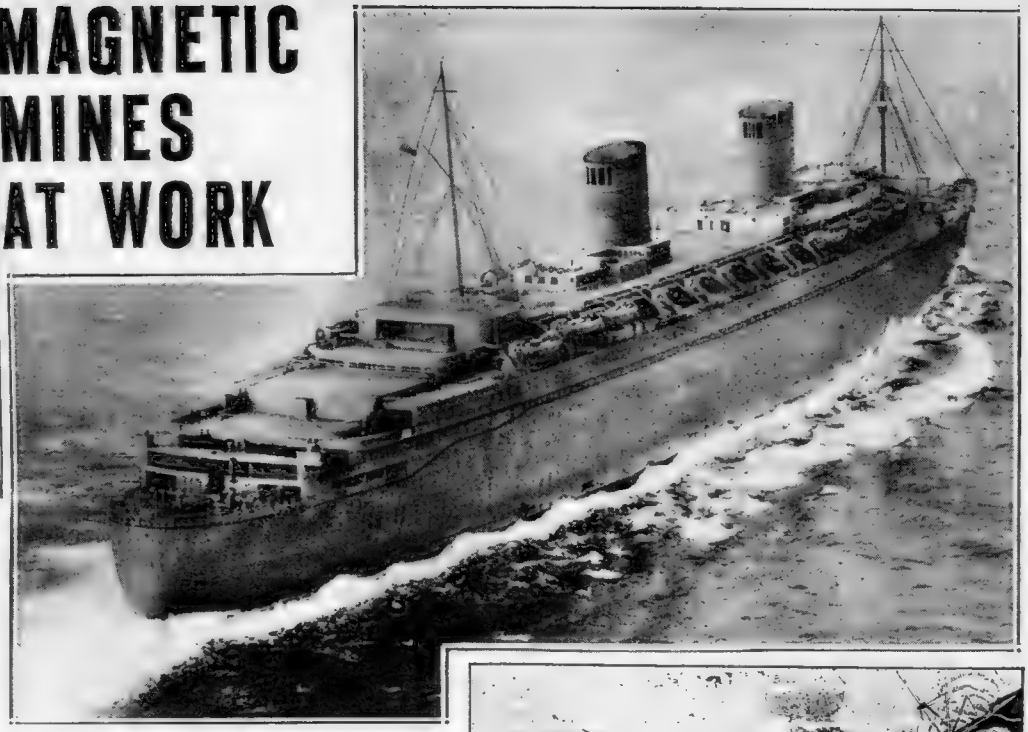
MAGNETIC MINES AT WORK



Queen Elizabeth Circled by Magnetic Cable

Are Nazi Mines 'Licked'?

When the world's largest and speediest liner, the Queen Elizabeth, arrived in the refuge of New York after her strangest of maiden trips, the world learned that Great Britain perhaps has solved, at last, the menace of Germany's magnetic mines.

Girded around the huge new liner, at the main deck level, is an electric cable, the answer of British naval technicians to the magnetic mine, but the theory of which was a mystery to most Americans.

Details of how the invention works are closely guarded, but the principle is known. Here that principle is explained:

When a ship approaches to within half a mile of a magnetic mine, sunk in the ooze of the sea floor, a magnetic grid which is part of the mine begins to waver, and as the ship nears, the grid slowly deflects upward.

The grid finally comes to an angle of 65 degrees, and the working of the mine is then explained as follows by C. E. Mulbury in the Scientific American:

"At this angle of deflection, the magnet grid makes a light electrical contact which, in turn, operates a fuse seal that restrains a spring-loaded valve of the air flask.

"The fuse melts, permitting the air valve to open; the blast of air thus released rapidly displaces the water ballast from the lower compartment through the hole at the bottom of the mine, the air vents having been closed by action of their pistons.

"The force of the water-and-air jet at the mine's bottom breaks the mud suction and the mine rises rapidly due to increased buoyancy and the jet's push.

"Detonation occurs automatically when the mine reaches a level of 50 feet below the surface. This is caused by the outward bulging of the second hydrostatic switch which has been held in the open position by pressure.

"When that pressure is sufficiently released (at the 50-foot level) the switch closes the detonation circuit and the explosion occurs.

"The mine as now used does not blow a vessel to smithereens. The explosion merely exposes by means of its destructive action some like that of a depth bomb."

In connection with the effectiveness of [illegible] the electric girdle, [illegible] has been applied on the Queen Elizabeth and many other vessels, has been devised.

Broadly, the electric girdle demagnetizes the vessel, thereby neutralizing the trigger action of the mines, which is discharged by the magnetic field of passing steel-hulled ships.

The earth's magnetic field converts a steel-hulled vessel into a magnet with permanent north and south poles.

By stringing an electric girdle about the ship, and passing alternating current through it, the poles of the vessel are reversed by each change of direction of the current.

This constant reversal soon scrambles the poles so completely that the ship is demagnetized and the principle of the mine is overcome.

The British call it "degaussing equipment," a gauss being a unit of measure of the intensity of a magnetic field.

Scientists explain that the vessels so equipped are probably demagnetized on the same principle used to demagnetize a watch.

The equipment can be installed on an ordinary vessel in about four days, although two weeks are required in the case of a ship the size of the Queen Elizabeth.

HIGHWAY DEATHS can be prevented; Southbridge, a town of 13,000 population and 4500 automobiles, shows us how.

In that municipality, which receives the through traffic between Providence and Springfield and the diverted traffic from the Boston-New York artery, authorities ENFORCE THE LAW. Moreover, everybody is AWARE OF THE FACT.

A NEEDLESS TRAGEDY
Southbridge Proves It

The safety crusade begun in June, 1937, following the deaths of three persons in a particularly gruesome head-on collision, has never been relaxed.

As a result, 1000 days have passed without a single fatality attributed to motor vehicles.

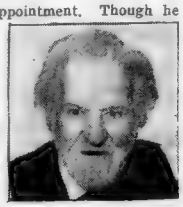
This prompts the National Safety Council to say:

"The fact that a busy city can control traffic for 1000 days without one person being killed is heartening and inspiring."

How heartening and how inspiring it actually is will depend on how well other towns and cities follow Southbridge's admirable leadership.

EDWIN MARKHAM, author of "The Man With the Hoe," has gone away, as he said he would, "to explore the mysteries of the dead."

Life brought him one major disappointment. Though he collected more than 1500 of his own poems and thousands of other poets' works, he never saw the "greatest poem of all time," which he fondly hoped some younger man would produce before his death.



EDWIN MARKHAM
Searched in Vain

"This," he used to explain, "would be five or six stanzas which would disperse the armies of the world."

If words, rhythmically arranged, can accomplish even a fractional part of that ambitious and exceedingly desirable program, the words should be written.

Poets, from Virgil to Kipling, have too often glorified war. Perhaps, now, it remains for poets to end it.

ANY AMERICAN GIRL can dress well on as little as $250 a year, says Miss Vera West, Hollywood fashion expert.

On this amount, the average young woman can be attractively and modishly gowned for all occasions—from picnics to weddings.

A SPRING HAT
For Every Woman

This may surprise women in some cities. Not women in Boston.

Here, women long ago discovered they could always find a garment appropriate to their needs and pocketbooks.

Which is undoubtedly the reason why Boston is more and more regarded as the Fashion Center of America.

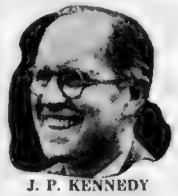
Wisely, Miss West does not recommend a $250 wardrobe for all women. She concedes that there are many who will spend MORE to look better.

None the less, there is an abundance of satisfaction in knowing that up-to-the-minute, stylish clothing is within reach of everyone.

NEW ENGLAND HARBORS are receiving a more liberal share of the nation's maritime business.

Last year, imports through these shipping centers advanced 31½ per cent in contrast to a gain of 16½ per cent for ports in other sections of the country.

New England exports increased 12½ per cent, while the rest of the country experienced only a 2½ per cent rise.



J. P. KENNEDY
America's Friend

This expansion of trade, according to A. Douglas Cook, of the Moore-McCormack Lines, results from the far-sighted policies of men like Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

We agree. Boston never had a better friend than this brilliant native son who, in his attempts to keep the United States out of the European war, is proving the really good friend of the entire country.

Mamma

MY mamma says that jitterbugs are very, very silly . . . and wonders why a modern girl should act like a hillbilly . . . In her day, well-bred girls, she says, took part in gentle sports . . . they might engage in tennis, but did not appear in shorts . . . And only demimondes, she said, would smoke a cigaret . . . while even girls who flirted would not condescend to pet . . . And no nice girl, in public, would a lipstick ever use . . . nor would she paint her fingernails in such barbaric hues . . . Girls didn't shag or Suzy-Q, but in the waltz would sway . . . Yet mamma, something tells me, was a live one in her day.

THERE'S to be a plane selling for about one thousand dollars. What are we going to do when the atmosphere is cluttered with planes as highways are with automobiles? When an automobile has mechanical trouble it just stops on the road. A plane in bad shape falls to earth and often drops into somebody's house. Yes, sir, when the air gets full of flying jallopies we will be in a spot. Maybe we will have to put a net over the country.

ATHLETES of today are more skillful than those of 25 years ago; but the old timers had more fight in them and more staying power . . . A man from San Francisco is called a San Franciscan; one from New York a New Yorker; one from Paris a Parisian. What do you call a man from Madrid? Or Dublin? Or Paw Paw, Mich.? . . . Women wear those peculiar looking hats and affect those quaint "hair-dos" because they crave individuality. Let them have their fun says I. After all, what a dreary world it would be if all women wore the same hats and all fixed their hair the same way. Be same as if all the trees on a highway were palm trees and all the flowers carnations . . . Long-legged girls make the best dancers . . . When the champion thoroughbred Seabiscuit travels by train he doesn't stand up as other horses do. No, sir, Seabiscuit stretches out on the floor. Trainer Smith sleeps beside him.

SPEEDY MILERS COMPETE IN THRILLING CONTEST

MEN WOULD ADMIT they were wrong to their wives more times if on such occasions the wives didn't assume such triumphal expressions of superiority . . . Tripling of children's playgrounds in New York City reduced the annual number of traffic accidents involving youngsters by 20,000. If there is no good playground for kids in your neighborhood start squawking . . . "Cannibals are supposed to be fierce. Vegetarians are fiercer," says Elsa Schiaparelli. "Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini eat no meat; drink no wine."

A NAGGING wife is good for a man. So says an alleged matrimonial expert. Just more of the all-too-much Moron fodder being served on subject of matrimony. A nagging wife makes a man nervous and decreases his efficiency. A nagging wife is usually a stupid and selfish person. To make a man a success a wife should keep him healthy, happy and confident. However, this takes brains, an unselfish spirit, real love and a talent for diplomacy.

LOOKS AS IF Hitler might launch a big drive at any moment. Hope I am wrong; but if I were in Paris or London, I certainly would keep my gas mask handy and have a nice air raid shelter picked out . . . -:- -:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, March 9—Wednesday night I went to the concert given by the National Symphony Orchestra and enjoyed it immensely, though I could not help feeling a tinge of melancholy when the Strauss waltzes were played. One thinks of what it must mean to Viennese people to realize the change that has come over their land.

Strauss waltzes can only flourish in a happy country. They might fit in with gentle sadness, but they could never have anything to do with terror, and that seems to be the predominating note of life in practically every European country today.

AFTER the concert was over, I came back to the White House, worked on my mail for three-quarters of an hour and then went out to the Thrift Shop Ball.

I confess to have felt somewhat aggrieved at having to start out for a second time and to leave a desk full of work, but it was a delightful party and the floor show went off very smoothly with some very nice singing and most graceful dancing.

The thrift shop here is run for the benefit of six children's charities and probably creates more [illegible] any other group of the [illegible] The floor was crowded with dancers and one could hardly get up or down the stairs.

MRS. ROOSEVELT
Wearing New Spring Hat

I could not help thinking that, while there is one thrift shop in Washington, there are several in New York City. The one known there as the Bargain Box, provides a steady revenue to the New York Committee for the Frontier Nursing Service. This Committee looks after the shop on Saturdays and will hold a tea March 12 to which a bundle of rummage is the admission price.

It seems a long way from Kentucky to New York City, but since this service has devoted workers in many cities, I hope that this particular committee's activity may be very successful and mean much to the health of the Kentucky mountaineers, over whom Mrs. Breckenridge watches with such devoted interest.

I had a delightful lunch with Mrs. Woodring, the wife of the Secretary of War, and returned to a number of appointments. The first two ladies came armed with written questions for fear that once inside the White House, the White House would wipe out all their ideas!

THEN there was a visit from Dr. Robert Townsend, which interested me very much. I sometimes wonder whether our devotion to a cause may have the effect of narrowing our point of view until we are unable to take a broad enough outlook on the world as a whole to have the proper perspective on our particular interest.

Yet, on the other hand, the drive of the person with the restricted interest is desperately needed to move almost any cause forward against the apathetic attitude taken by most people.

BULLETIN: The greatest midget act in the whole wide world has just been booked for the Cocoanut Grove . . . we have never heard of the little guy who runs the act and probably neither have you . . . But he and his tiny partners are spread- life sized maybe—all over the pages of one of the picture magazines this week. Even that hardly warrants the column dancing in the aisle to the point where this item tops today's compilation of fact and fancy.

THE STORY of the booking, however, is more interesting than the news that Andre Tatourcheff & Co. (Andre & Co. is all you'll read in the adv.) is opening Monday at the Cocoanut Grove . . . But—the very vital Tallulah Bankhead is the heroine of the story . . . Tallo, as her friends—and they form a cult comparable to the Noel Coward Chowder and Marching Club—call her, really booked the act . . . Tallulah knew Andre & Co. when she was the American who stormed London's theatricals as the town's outstanding female star . . . the midget was and is sensational . . . He dances, sings and acts—and his take-offs of normal folk such as Maurice Chevalier and Charles Boyer are said to be cameo masterpieces . . . But Andre has been too busy—at too much per week in Europe to make the break for America . . . But came the War.

MISS BANKHEAD is a loyal as well as an impetuous soul . . . She has admired Morris Gest for the great man's achievements of another day—the day when Gest imported Chauve Souris, the Moscow Art Players, and when he staged "The Miracle," among other things . . . Gest has not been doing so well of late, as Broadway knows . . . Perhaps Tallo has helped a bit . . . Miss Bankhead also likes Mickey Alpert . . . Last night she dropped into the Grove . . . then came a Tinker to Evans to Chance booking—Bankhead to Gest to Alpert.

"I think I can get Andre and his act for you," said Miss Bankhead, "but he's very expensive" . . . Tallulah thought a moment . . . "But never mind. How much can you afford to pay?" . . .

MICKEY WENT into a huddle with his boss, the lawyer who runs the Grove and runs like a deer from the prospect of having his name in the papers . . . Mickey came back with a figure . . . He must have been a good salesman, because the famed lawyer is a very careful operator and the numerals mentioned were quite sizable . . . Confidentially, Andre's salary will be the largest paid out for an act at the Grove since the late Charles Solomon used to book Texas Guinan at more money than a scowful of McCoy's Scotch at the market price . . . But Miss Bankhead hesitated a minute before telephoning Mr. Gest in New York . . . The chances are that Tallulah's whim is costing her a chunk of money . . . but the booking is made . . . It will be the first appearance of Andre & Co. in the U. S. prior to their starring engagement at the World's Fair.

MAGINOT LIFE STORY FOR SCREEN

By Louella O. Parsons

Gail Patrick

HOLLYWOOD, March 9 The life and career of Andre Maginot, the soldier and the man, will be the subject of a motion picture to be made at 20th Century-Fox. There's much more to the story than just a biography, for Maginot, who rose from a lowly private in the last war to Minister of War, left behind a diary. It is this diary that Darryl Zanuck has bought from Maginot's widow for his movie. As soon as the news of this amazing manuscript appeared in the newspapers he started negotiations with the widow, but the government stepped in, refusing to allow the story to be filmed.

MRS. BING CROSBY

Now the French government has relented and even agreed to co-operate with Zanuck, and Madame Maginot will herself furnish some additional facts on her husband's life. The motion picture will be made on a huge scale—perhaps the most elaborate picture ever produced at 20th. The diary itself will be published in book form next summer.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD. The Vernon Downings are now three. Little Victoria arrived yesterday. Papa is playing in "Pride and Prejudice"; Claudette Colbert, hatless and with her husband, Dr. Joel Pressman, dancing and dining tete-a-tete at Perino's Sky Room. Gail Patrick delighted Bob Cobb by making a speech at the Santa Barbara Chamber of Commerce on baseball. They went up to see the Hollywood Stars, Bob's team, now in training there.

TIM DURANT hosting a dinner in honor of Mrs. Betsey Cushing Roosevelt. Later he took his guests to Hal Rosch's to look at movies; Liz Whitney arrived in town unexpectedly yesterday and is talking contract at Republic studios; Mabel McIntyre, Odd's widow, is the guest of Mrs. Will Hays at her Hidden Valley ranch; the Robert Kanes said farewell to their friends at a dinner given by Sally Ellers and Harry Joe Brown. They leave today for England. Hedy Lamarr took honors at backgammon at the Browns while George Burns won every rubber of bridge.

MARY LIVINGSTONE and Gracie Allen played backgammon like mad. Gracie flew to Washington to the National Press Club dinner where she will meet her political colleagues. George talks of nothing but her presidential candidacy while Gracie answers: "I don't get it." Mrs. Bing Crosby and her four boys at the Pan Pacific Auditorium looked like a potential hockey team; Rex St. Cyr, socialite, entertaining at Ciro's. Peggy Fears, A. C. Blumenthal and George Gordon Moore in the party.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

OLD PETE SANDS, with tears streaming down his withered cheeks, closed the doors of the rude cabin, sat himself down on a rough unmade bunk, and motioned the stranger, wearing the uniform and cap of a keeper at the State asylum, to a rickety splint-bottomed chair.

"Well, you've got me!" he moaned. "And just as I was about to get in touch with Munnula, the Earth's third, invisible moon!"

His watery glance drifted to a cheap radio set mounted on a flimsy pine table in a corner of the room. "When do we go, mister—when do we start?"

THE CORNERS of the stranger's mouth crinkled in a mirthless grin. "When do we go?" he echoed. "Why, not at all! At least not if I can help it!" And removing the cap from his curly head he flung it into the empty fireplace.

For a long minute Old Pete stared uncomprehendingly into the calm eyes of the stranger, then he jumped to his feet and towered above him.

"You're lying!" he panted. "Trying to play with me as a cat plays with a mouse—trying to raise false hopes in my poor old breast! But you can't fool me! Answer me, sir—when do we go!"

THE STRANGER puffed his cigarette and blew a series of smoke rings toward the cobwebby roof. "You heard me old scout," he returned as he gazed half-amusedly, half-sadly, into the monomaniac's distended eyes.

"You heard me the first time. But say, old man—personally, I think you're all wrong about that third moon.

"Now the thing that's wrong with this world," he paused and a peculiar glitter came into his eyes, "is that it'll never appreciate the advantages of my scheme for digging a tunnel through to China!

"No, as I said before, I'm not taking you back to the State asylum—because—well, I just escaped from there myself!"

Can you write a short story as good as this? Do it NOW. Send it to Two-Minute Story Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston. Five dollars will be paid for week's best story.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

MADE A FOOL of yourself? Run amuck — wallowing in jealousy, greed, hate—some other swinish weakness? Maybe just been so yellow that you can't face braver humans again?

And now, of course, you're sorry—frantic—tempted to end it all.

Don't be! There's nothing unique in your situation, stranger. It happens in every hotblooded, growing life. Regretable? That depends on how you handle it. If, having made a mistake, you wallow in its memory ever after, it's certainly a tragedy. But if you use it as a stepping stone to larger living, that's something else.

ALL OF WHICH was said over 2000 years ago, incomparably better than I can ever say it. The man who said it was a wise and powerful king—but that hadn't kept him from being both fool and knave on certain occasions. After one of those occasions he wrote a prayer.

Even if you never read another word of the Bible, read King David's 51st Psalm:

"Have mercy upon me, O, God . . . blot out my transgressions. Wash me thoroughly from my iniquity and cleanse me from my sin.

"For I acknowledge my transgressions; and my sin is ever before me.

"Against Thee, Thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil in Thy sight . . .

"BEHOLD THOUGH DESIREST TRUTH IN THE INWARD PARTS: AND IN THE HIDDEN PART THOU SHALT MAKE ME KNOW WISDOM . . .

"Cast me not away from Thy presence; and take not Thy holy spirit from me. Restore into me the joy of Thy salvation; and uphold me with Thy free spirit.

"Deliver me . . . and my tongue shall sing . . .

"For Thou desirest no sacrifice; else would I give it . . .

"THE SACRIFICES OF GOD ARE A BROKEN SPIRIT: A BROKEN AND A CONTRITE HEART, O, GOD, THOU WILT NOT DESPISE."

A FEW SHORT verses—yet in them is all that any man need know of sin and its healing. He had sinned, had great King David—but he was not going to prolong that sin by morbid wallowing. Clearly he saw the truth about sin.

Motor and Outing News

By J. LEO SUGRUE, Automobile Editor

BOSTON MOTORISTS VOTING ON VARIETY OF QUESTIONS

Motorists of Greater Boston are voting during March on gas taxes and registration fees, parking facilities, pedestrian regulations, improving driving habits, brake and headlight inspection, merit system on compulsory insurance, safety education in high schools with at-the-wheel training and their pet peeves, such as back seat driving, cutting in, road hogging, slow-moving trucks, careless pedestrians, etc.

"What's Your Opinion" ballots are being distributed at service and civic clubs, luncheon groups, private clubs and elsewhere, and at the Boston Automobile Club, division of the American Automobile Association, better known as the AAA, the Automatic Voting Machine Co., has given the use of a voting machine for motorists to cast their actual votes.

The voting machine, available to all motorists, is in the Club offices at Arlington and Columbus, ground floor of the Statler Hotel. Motorists are invited to cast their votes without any obligation. The voting machine was used at the last New York City and Washington automobile shows and it is the first time the AAA has endeavored to get a cross-section of motorists ideas in Boston and New England.

The results of the ballots of the motorists determines many of the club activities on various issues that concern all motorists, whether or not they are club members.

Result of the first day's activity on the voting machine are as follows:

Should all gasoline taxes and registration fees be used for highway purposes? YES, 216. NO, 20.

Should pedestrians be compelled to obey Stop and Go signals? YES, 233. NO, 15.

Should parking facilities be a part of all newly constructed office and apartment buildings? YES, 207. NO, 31.

Which one condition, requires first attention? Downtown Parking Problems 109, Building Highways, 65. Improving Driving Practices 58.

Should highway patrol police cars be conspicuously marked? Yes, 167, No 57.

Do you favor the regulation of outdoor advertising along rural highways? Yes, 143. No, 81.

Should motorists be required to have headlights, brakes, etc., inspected periodically at official inspection stations? Yes, 217. No, 17.

Do you favor a merit system, to raise the insurance rates of reckless drivers, and lower rates for the careful non-accident driver? Yes, 148. No, 31.

Do you favor traffic safety education including at-the-wheel training in high schools. Yes, 211. No, 17.

"Legislators, state officials concerned with insurance and taxation matters, traffic authorities and others," Fred E. Hamlin, of the Boston AAA stated, "will have an accurate picture of what the motorists are thinking about when this poll is completed. And since over 90 per cent of the voters drive or own automobiles, it's a wise legislator and official who ponders the results of the poll."

MERCURY STOCK CAR'S TOUR
On 60-Day Run in New England

Mercury Stock Car Run Started by Governor

In front of the State House, Governor Saltonstall, officially started a 1940 Mercury Stock Car on an economy and performance run which will last for sixty days and visit practically every city and town in New England.

This Mercury car, a four door sedan, was taken from stock at random and will be operated on standard gasoline and lubricate as near as possible the type of driving a Mercury car would be subject to in the hands of an average owner.

A. B. Peirce, Somerville branch manager for the Ford Motor Co., J. F. Abely, Mercury supervisor, and a large group of Mercury dealers including Roy Hiltz of Lamie & Partridge, C. M. Stilphen of Sculping Motor Co., Howard Schram of Hawes Motor Co., Ralph Cote of Cote Motor Co., Norman Brooks of Coombs Motor Co., R. H. Wheeler of R. H. Wheeler Co., and Frank Cousins of Arthur Coombs Co., were on hand to witness the start.

Mr. Peirce stated that the reason for this Mercury economy and performance run was to convince the motoring public of New England that the performance and gasoline economy Mercury owners have been claiming for their cars for the last year is a fact and not a fancy.

Spark Plug Sales Show Big Increase

General Motors' AC Spark Plug division held a sales convention here at the Kenmore Hotel for its distributors from this city and surrounding areas.

According to representatives of the company, spark plug sales, which have long been regarded as a barometer of business prospects in the automotive parts field, have registered sharp increases during the past 30 days.

Snow Cruiser Fails Byrd on Expedition

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 9 (INS)—The snow cruiser taken to Antartica by Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition was revealed as a disappointment, in a letter received by Dr. George E. Cressley of the Syracuse University faculty.

Raymond Butler of the Byrd crew wrote Cressley that the "latest news on the snow cruiser is that it is too heavy and does not have enough power. It is not expected to be a success."

Scouts to Open Southie Fete

Preliminary ceremonies to South Boston's Evacuation Day celebration will be ushered in tomorrow afternoon by Boy Scouts of the district at flag raising exercises at Marine Park, to be followed by a parade to Dorchester Heights.

Mayor Tobin and Gov. Saltonstall were expected to participate in the exercises—the first in a series which will be climaxed by the big parade on March 16.

At the same time, Cornelius F. Sullivan, chairman of the flag division for the celebration, asked residents of the district to display the American flag for a week, beginning tomorrow.

Truck Tracked

A huge tractor truck, stolen in the South End nearly two months ago, was found abandoned in a vacant lot behind an apartment house in Harvard ave., Allston.

After removing the machine to a garage, police sent teletype messages to Rochester, N. Y., notifying the owner, Francis Stoller, of its recovery.

HUDSON MOTOR CO. OPENS NATIONAL SALES DRIVE

Spearheaded by a unique demonstration drive, one of the most aggressive nation-wide spring merchandising programs ever undertaken by the Hudson Motor Car Company was launched here today by George H. Pratt, general sales manager, at a regional meeting of Hudson distributors, dealers and retail salesmen held at the Hesley-Kimball distributors building. Similar meetings are being held this week in 67 other United States cities, Pratt stated. H. F. Byrne, eastern sales manager, assisted Mr. Pratt in the conduct of the meeting here.

Pratt told the assembled distributors and dealers that the Hudson factory was experiencing the most active pre-spring demand since 1937, and that since the introduction of the 1940 models the company had already shipped 11,-900 more cars than were shipped in the entire 1939 season.

Similar gains in organization strength were disclosed by Pratt who reported that 770 new dealers have joined Hudson so far in the current model season.

"In view of this progress," Pratt declared, "Hudson's spring program, inviting millions of motorists to compare Hudson for themselves on their own familiar travel routes, is happily timed with factors that point strongly to an outstandingly successful spring selling season."

Record-Breaking Burden on Autos

With the year 1940 bringing unprecedented responsibilities to the automotive industry, it is of vital importance to the nation and the world at large that it shall be free from the strangling harassments inflicted upon it in the last few years.

That is the considered opinion of outstanding economists and business leaders, public officials and financial experts, and other authorities with a hand on the pulse of the times. The labor disturbances which have dislocated the industry periodically must not be repeated, they assert.

The year unquestionably will be a crucial one for civilization. With most of the Old World wallowing in war, the foremost concern of the United States is preparedness, which will protect it from involvement. In the perfecting of the national defense, which is being accelerated as never before, the motor industry is playing a leading part—one in which it must not fail.

And there are numerous other considerations. For years it has been recognized that as goes the curve of America's No. 1 industry's activity so goes the welfare of the nation and its people. The effects are all-pervasive. The employment of millions is affected, albeit many of them are far beyond the confines of the industry itself.

This year the situation is sharply accentuated. Because of events abroad there should be record-breaking travel in America—nearly all of it over the highways.

Increased demands upon the United States for foodstuffs also will create new need of automotive equipment and supplies throughout the vast agricultural regions. The diversion of motor manufacturing facilities of the warring countries to military purposes will create greater world markets for the American product, bringing about more employment in many fields.

No one will contend that the nation's worst depression is over but virtually all portents, industrial and other economic indices, show the upswing to normal conditions is well under way. And, as always, the automotive industry has been the leading factor.

State Ready To Fight Flood

John W. Beal, state commissioner of public works, today said his department was prepared for possible floods.

Armed with dynamite, a number of blasters have been hired by department engineers to stand by, ready to break up possible ice jams in rivers in central and western Massachusetts.

Conditions closely parellel those which preceeded the worst flood in the state's history in 1936, engineers said. A close watch is being kept through installation of guages on streams which caused heavy damage in the record flood.

New Manager For Pontiac Co.

Harold M. Bowman, president and treasurer of the Bowman Pontiac Inc., in the reorganization of this corporation, announces the appointment of Robert H. DeMinico as manager, to have supervision of sales service.

DeMinico is one of the pioneer Pontiac sales representatives in Metropolitan Boston. In addition to having an excellent sales record, DeMinico was honored nationally my the Pontiac Division of the General Motors Corporation, as 1935 winner of a nation wide sales-promotion-idea contest, originating a unique Pontiac "Treasure Hunt" which was conducted in every city and town in the United States.

He has also to his credit the patented invention of a productive sales promotion device, known as the "Silent Salesman."

Wilson Heads Truck Drive

E. C. Benway, manager of the Motor Truck Club of Massachusetts announced Allan J. Wilson, general chairman, and D. Earl Brackett, chairman of the steering committee, for the 10,000 new member campaign drive.

Mr. Benway said:

"Our club desires to increase its present membership so as to carry further our work of promoting safety on the highways and to improve public opinion on the economic advantages of highway transportation."

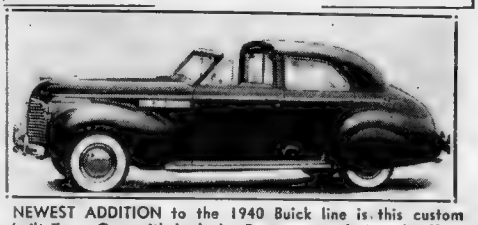
There are approximately 51,000 private and 9000 for hire trucks in Massachusetts.

Accidentally Shot By Christmas Rifle

JOHNSTON, R. I., March 9—Raymond Whittaker, 14, was dead today—shot in play by his own Christmas rifle.

Medical Examiner John D. Hubbard said the weapon was discharged by Norman J. Wade, 13, and that the shooting was accidental. Seated on stools, the boys were playing with two rifles in a shed at the rear of the Wade home. Unaware that the safety catch was not set, the Wade boy pulled the trigger of young Whittaker's rifle, police said.

LAST WORD IN LUXURY



NEWEST ADDITION to the 1940 Buick line is this custom built Town Car, with body by Brunn, an exclusive chauffeur driven model with enclosed tonneau.

One Dollar a Day and Up

Dec. 14, 1939.

Mrs. Marie Orteguez,
21 Buena Vista ave.,
Los Vegas, Nev.

Dearest of the Dear Marie: I take my pen in my hand and it is a knife twisting in a raw wound. With the blood I write these words to you, I your husband, Manuel Jose Orteguez, knife thrower of all knife throwers, who would have played the Palace if I had been old enough which, thank the good Lord I am not, because then I would not be your desolate husband crying out to you of loneliness from this place.

Marie, my life, this little room of mine look ... in loneliness. When the sun gets high enough so that it can shine into it, it is but a dead ball of red lead with no heat and no warmth. With me, it is grieving for your absence. With me, it is pining for your return.

Somewhere in this hotel—I do not care where—is Miss Peggy Handros, my human target, living on my bounty, the thirty dollars a week I pay her which, Heaven knows, is robbery and the fault of Equity. They say I must pay her that under a contract because she endangers her life at every performance. As though anyone was ever in a moment of danger when my knives flash through the air and into the board against which she stands!

I should have fired her weeks ago. I would fire her now but I cannot. I inflicted a slight wound on her shoulder because I was very nervous after a terrible beating given me by that devil of a man who caused all the trouble between you and me. My knives did not fly through the air as true, perhaps. That is what she claims. But I say she moved. I say she stepped into the path of one of my knives and it kissed her shoulder. It is a mere pin-prick. But she uses it as a club over my head so that I cannot discharge her. That is not too bad. She looks very well in the tights she wears in the act, but not so good as you, my Sweet. There is no one looks so good as you in tights or anything else. That girl Peggy Handros I do not like personally. I love you and I will love you until I die.

The Cast of Characters in "The Knife Thrower"

MANUEL JOSE ORTEGUEZ, whose vaudeville act is that if throwing knives around a human target.

MARIE, his wife, who prefers mother to facing flying knives.

VOWS UNDYING LOVE

Marie, breath of my life, will you be surprised to get this letter? My sweet, I would have found you if you had been hiding, so great is my love for you. If I had the money, I would engage the most expensive detective agency to locate you. But I have no money. But I have brains. Yes. Your Manuel Jose has the brains. He sits, sad and lonely and desolate understanding?" He thinks, "Where is my little dove, my pigeon, who ran away because of a little misunderstanding?" He thinks, "Where would a beautiful girl go with little money but enough culture to go some place?" And he answered himself. He said, 'She would fly to her mother who would give her sympathy and a pat over her head." So then I wrote your mother, whom I do not know and I asked if you were home. And she wrote me back a lovely letter.

Your mother told me that it was nice to have you home but that there are many other children. She did not say this, my sweet, but I got the impression that she could use the bed you use, because they are crowded and your father is around the house so much, not being able to get work. She said it was best for a wife to be near her husband, no matter what has happened between them. I think she is right. Do you not, my pigeon?

Ah to have you in my arms! Who would ever think that out of the one hundred and thirty million Americans and the seventy million Mexicans who are you and I?

When I was a little boy in Mexico City, I did not even have the English. My father was a diplomat, a Mexican, descended from the blood of the conquerors and the conquered, the Spaniards and the Aztec Indians. My mother was American like you. Then when I was twelve, they sent me to the good fathers in New York and there I picked up the English so fast that it was truly a miracle.

And, who knows? Perhaps, some day I would have been a journalist, a writer for the newspapers. But there was a peon on our ranch. He was wonderful with the knives. He could throw a knife to split a hair against a board at fifteen paces. And he taught me to throw knives.

MANY ADVENTURES

So one day the good fathers disciplined me for smoking cigarettes and I became very angry and I ran away. I had many adventures, some of which I have told you, until the day when I joined a carnival as a knife thrower. I found my life work. Ever afterward, I would be a knife thrower. Well, you know how I went into the vaudeville and how I went from one side of the United States to the other side of the United States. You know how you and I met at the Alhambra in Chicago.

You remember how you were the girl Professor Sykos, the mystic, cut in half in his great illusion. You remember how I besieged you. I will never forget how I feared that some night or day by a terrible mistake, Professor Psykos would cut you in half really with that terrible big sword he thrust into the basket. I would lie in my bed at night, sweating and worrying and praying that nothing like that should ever happen! Was that not foolish? Yes. But one is foolish when one is in love. I am foolish now. For I am still in love, Marie, with you.

(An hour later.)

Marie, darling, dear! Things are very bad. I have received a telegram stating that our booking in Scranton, Pa., has been cancelled. That is the only thing I had to look forward to over the holidays. Now I am without a date till the first week in January.

I telephoned from my room here to Miss Peggy Handros and I told her the bad news. As I would not buy a booking, I could not pay her and this was as good a time as any to break up our act. I will confess to you, my sweet, that I thought of having you back with the act again. That way, I would save thirty dollars a week. I would not be saving it really because it would be our money and not my money we would be saving. I tell you this because I am sure that when you receive this letter, you will come to me and we will have a lovely reunion.

So I felt very sad about my booking being cancelled but very glad at the prospect that you and I would be together again. I was feeling this mixture of feelings, lying on my bed in this room when there was a knock on the door. I opened the door and it was Miss Peggy Handros, my target, standing there.

She began to tell me that she had decided that she would work for me for nothing as she had a little money of her own. I thanked her but I told her that would be impossible. I told her that, as she knew, I was temporarily separated from my partner, who was also my wife. That was you. And then suddenly she acted very strangely. She said she loved my broad shoulders and my little mustache and my soft voice and my gentle ways. She said she loved to stand there and see the knives leaping at her through the air and sometimes she did not care whether one of them struck her and killed her. And then she threw her arms around me and began to try to kiss me. I had great difficulty getting her out of the room and locking the door. It was all very embarrassing.

Marie, Darling, I want you to forget all that happened between you and me. I beg you! I want you to see my side of it. What, my darling, was I to think when I walked unexpectedly in our dressing room at the Have-A-Heart two-a-day theater in Syracuse to find you in the arms of a man? Oh, the good Heaven! The heart break! Even now when I think of it, the room turns red and my practice board, standing against the wall at which other guests of the hotel have raised a clamor because of the thudding of my knives as I practise, turns a bright red and I see you standing there with that beautiful false face of yours and I pray, Marie, I pray!

"What, my darling, was I to think when I walked unexpectedly into our dressing room?"

"CAN I HELP IT?"

Marie, Darling, can I help it if the blood of thousands, nay tens of thousands of Indians and Conquisidors flowing in my veins boiled at what I believed was your faithlessness and assault upon my honor? No, you cannot. Be fair, Marie, dearest of the dear. You cannot, can you? No!

And you stood there so silent and defiant that I thought you did not love me any more. Why did you not tell me that you could not help but love your tall, handsome Manuel Jose Orteguez, knife thrower of all knife throwers, who had taught you love in the twilight, in the darkness, in the high light of day when we were "at liberty?" Why did you not say, "Manuel, we have both made a mistake. Let us kiss each other."

Then I never would have hissed in your ear just before we went on for our act, "You false devil! When I get you against that board, I will kill you with knives, tear your beautiful flesh. I will make you die, I, Manuel Jose Orteguez, knife thrower of all knife throwers!"

But no. You just stood there against that board with your eyes staring at me with the fear of death in them and watched my beautiful knives flying at you. You are brave! You are beautiful! You are my true and loyal wife! How was I to know that demon of a man was your brother, John, who was in trouble with the law of Los Vegas, Nevada and here in New York for you to help him? How?

Marie, I have forgiven you for not telling me he was your brother. Now you forgive me for not knowing it and misunderstanding everything. Marie Darling, send me a telegram when you get this letter. Let it contain one little word, the answer to these two questions: Marie, Darling, do you love me? Marie, Darling, will you please come back to me? Yours in deep lonely sorrow Manuel Jose Orteguez, KNIFE THROWER TO HIS MAJESTY THE AMERICAN CITIZEN.

By JACK CONWAY

THE NEW ENGLAND amateur boxing championships at the Garden on Monday night will bring together a great array of champions who have been winning titles in various local tournaments this season. It is the opinion of Gene Driscoll and Tom Kanaly that the 32 youngsters who will sweep into action in the eight classes in the Garden tournament will furnish blistering action.

Tony Peppi, flyweight, is the only defending champion. This is a favorable condition as the boxers will be evenly matched.

The general standard of amateur boxing falls off when veteran champions keep defending their titles. The average youngster knows he has not any chance of winning against experienced competition, and so either does not enter a tournament or boxes without real spirit.

The battles for the various titles will be wide open on Monday night. Any of the youngsters who will come walking down the long aisles to the ring can leave the Garden a New England champion.

The trial bouts for the New England championships, which were held in the Arena, furnished intense competition. The swanky Garden will offer a fitting setting for what promises to be one of the best amateur boxing shows ever staged in this city.

Hockey Season Is Sizzling Hot

WITH THE BRUINS leading the National Hockey League once more, the hockey season has become red hot. At the Garden tonight the pace setting Bruins will take on the New York Americans for the second time this week. In New York on Thursday evening, the Bruins managed to beat the Americans by a score of 2 to 1 despite the presence of Eddie Shore in the lineup of the opposition.

Shore is ready to play for the Americans at the Garden tonight. Despite the fact he will be wearing an enemy uniform, Shore will receive a tremendous reception from Boston fans. They look to Shore as hockey's greatest hero.

Shore has been a good team man since he joined the Americans. He suffered a $500 fine last Sunday for playing for the Americans rather than for his own Springfield club against the Providence Reds. Eddie was anxious to see the Americans get into the playoffs, and declared it was worth $5000 to him to assist his club to win.

Shore has had one of the most checkered experiences in hockey this season. Between the Bruins, Americans and Springfield he has been kept in a mental turmoil much of the time, but has still managed to play good hockey.

Following their clash with the Americans at the Garden tonight the Bruins will take things easy until they oppose the Rangers in the first of a two-game series at the Garden next Tuesday night. These two contests will determine the leadership of the National Hockey League.

The Garden is already sold out for Tuesday night's game. It will be a wildly enthusiastic crowd that will jam the North Station sports palace to see the Bruins trying to hold back the final sweep of the Rangers.

The Bruins have displayed plenty of ability to rally when hard pressed. I look to see them rise to new heights when they oppose the surging Rangers.

Al McCoy in Philadelphia Bout

AL McCOY, who has been making his home in New York, is visiting with Mrs. McCoy's family in this city. McCoy has just come through a winner in two comeback bouts, and says he has signed to take on Gus D'Orazio in Philadelphia on March 25. D'Orazio attracted considerable attention when he won a decision over Bob Pastor.

If McCoy disposes of D'Orazio it is the plan of Philadelphia promoters to match him with Billy Conn, world's light heavyweight champion.

HENRY CHMIELEWSKI, New England middleweight champion, and Howell King will clash in a ten-round bout in Worcester on March 15 . . . Chmielewski has agreed to box at a show in Boston to be sponsored by the Polish Relief Committee . . . "Rip" Valenti's Goodwin A. C. will assist in the promotion . . . Valenti has been talking on the long distance telephone to Los Angeles with Eddie Mead, manager of Hammering Henry Armstrong . . . Mead has given Valenti a promise he will permit Armstrong to box in Boston.

Horace Wade and Joe McCarthy, who will write publicity for Suffolk Downs, will be employed only during the summer meeting . . . During the off season, Frank Ryan will continue to handle the news releases for the East Boston track . . . With $100,000 in purses the August Grand Circuit meeting at Narragansett Park should attract considerable attention.

Paul Bowser has been elected to the board of directors of the Rhode Island Trotting Ass'n, the organization that will conduct the meeting . . . Bowser promoted the Grand Circuit meetings at Agawam Park, and was closely allied with the Old Orchard, Me., meeting.

WEARY SHORE PONDERS ABOUT FACING BRUINS

Boston's mighty Bruins come roaring down the home stretch out front and intend to remain there during this final week of league competition by starting on Red Dutton's New York Americans on the Garden surface tonight.

Just a lone point ahead of those pesky Rangers, who are idle tonight, the Bruins will add two points to their margin if they handle the "Old Men of New York," and there is no earthly reason why they shouldn't, in view of the fact that they have done just that on seven occasions this year.

SHORE WEIGHS QUESTION

The Americans haven't even been able to eke out a consolation tie in their series with the B's this year. They hoped to come up with the proper solution last Thursday night in New York with the presence of Eddie Shore, but even Mr. Hockey himself could not turn the trick.

Chances are that Eddie Shore will be in the lineup tonight although he has refused to definitely commit himself during the past two days.

Just after Shore left the Bruins he said that he would play on March 9—tonight against the Bruins as a tribute to the hockey fans of Boston.

FIVE GAMES IN SIX DAYS

But from last Saturday through Thursday night Shore played five games in six nights which is a little too much for any mortal, and now "Old No. 2" is deliberating in Springfield whether he will be able to stand long enough to make any kind of a showing.

Unless Shore feels fully rested, he probably will not play. The grind is getting him, and he has taken more physical punishment this past month than it was believed any normal individual could stand. There is a limit to anybody's endurance and it may be that Eddie has reached it.

He, truthfully, wants to play tonight and if he skates on the ice it will be against his better judgment and only to keep his word with the Boston fans.

ELEVEN IN ROW AT HOME

The Bruins, though, are not particularly concerned as to whether or not Shore will play. If they beat the Amerks in New York with Eddie, they are a cinch to repeat at home tonight, for the Rossmen are virtually unbeatable in their own backyard.

They have won 19 out of 21 games at home this season, and the last eleven in a row. They will be flying tonight—particularly the Kraut line which is determined to take all scoring honors.

Right now Milt Schmidt is out front with 50 points and there is little danger of his being caught. Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer, however, are only one point ahead of Bryan Hextall of the Rangers for second place, and this pair is out to jump the gap.

EAGER FOR POINTS

In fact all the Bruins are anxious to get the two points for the game for they knew that the Americans face the Rangers in New York tomorrow and after the B's get through with the Old Men of New York tonight, the Duttonmen will be in no condition to hold their own with the Rangers.

On this figuring, the Bruins know that they must win tonight. A victory will keep them in first place even if the Rangers win tomorrow evening.

And you can rest assured that the charges of Art Ross are going to do everything possible to win tonight—and it's a pretty safe bet to say they will.

CRYSTAL GAZING?—Maybe Johnny Vander Meer of the Reds sees a vision of 1940 comeback greatness as he gazes at the pill in an off moment in camp. The great hurler, who was useless to his team last year, was to face the Red Sox today for his first and perhaps most vital test of the year.

Red Sox Test Vandy In Southern Opener

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 9—The Red Sox open their exceptionally long exhibition game schedule against the Reds in Tampa tomorrow, and it will be interesting to see how Johnny Vander Meer is coming along. Vandy is scheduled to pitch part of the game.

You must remember Vandy. The kid who mowed down the Fees without a hit or a run in Cincinnati on June 11, 1938; then repeated against the Dodgers in a night game at Brooklyn on June 15, the very next time out.

CALLED "WONDER PITCHER"

It was a feat unprecedented in the long history of the national pastime. Johnson or Matty or Waddell or Young had never approximated it.

"A wonder pitcher," the nation cried. But the tall Dutch southpaw from New Jersey never lived up to the reputation. In fact that year he finished with a 15-10 record, and last year, with a pennant winner, he sank to a 5-9 level while Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer stole his thunder.

Vandy was the toast of the 1939 banquet league, even receiving a trophy at the Baseball Writers dinner in Boston, but last winter he truly was the forgotten man.

APPENDIX KICKED UP

There is a story behind Johnny though, a rather perplexing one.

One year ago this spring his appendix became unruly. He was ordered to have it out. But the story is told that Deacon Bill McKechnie, Reds' manager, has an abhorence for operations and forbade it.

The appendix was frozen, and after a while Johnny got back on his feet. Nothing further was done about it. Wonder how he's feeling this spring. Wonder if his system is full of poison.

GROVE GIVES ADVICE

There is another angle to Vandy's downfall, too.

Two years ago, when the Sox and Reds were wending their way northward, playing against each other daily as they will do again this spring, McKechnie asked Lefty Grove to take a peek at Vandy, and tell him what was wrong with his form. Lefty obliged.

Vandy had been letting his pitch go to soon, Lefty noticed, and advised him to hold onto the ball a little longer; also to keep his arm closer to his body, so close in fact that the arm would brush against the left knee in the process of delivery.

WHAT DOES FUTURE HOLD

Vandy pucked in the advice with great gusto, worked assiduously on the new delivery and forthwith became a star.

But he was sick last spring and didn't do much twirling. And he didn't renew his course of instruction with Grove.

Which makes one wonder if he has forgotten Lefty's advice or whether his ill health has made him fall by the wayside. Vandy has appeared on the mound once at Tampa this spring and was hit quite hard in the two innings he worked. What does the future hold?

40 BATTLE FOR N. E. CROWNS

Forty young warriors will march into battle Monday night at the Garden in the grand finals of the 1940 New England A. A. A. U. championships.

Gene Driscoll and his A. A. A. U. committee reported today that the entry list includes about the finest young fighters in this area and that the bouts should be best of their kind in years.

Competition in eight championship classes is carded, flyweight to heavyweight, and the battling will be spirited, you may be sure. There are several incentives for the boys, the lure of N. E. titles, and the chance to qualify for the Nationals, listed at the Garden April 8, 9 and 10.

In addition, the George V. Brown memorial trophy will go to the boy voted outstanding athlete of the night by the newsmen.

The lightweight class has as well-balanced a field as has ever graced any program. The five boys who will strive to become champ are John Daley, 18-year-old Newton student and winner of the state championship last January; Theodore Tuggle, 20-year-old Boston boy, who has been cleaning up all opposition this season; Romeo Paris, 23-year-old Fitchburg steel worker, oldest boxer in the tournament in years of competition; Frank Sidoti, 18-year-old South Boston lad who has come with leaps and bounds this past season, and Ernest Forte, 19-year-old Providence youngster and the present Rhode Island champion.

For slugging you will go a long way before you get a card like that offered in the 160-pound class. There are Lou Vivolo, Boston tailor and the 1940 state champion; Joe Maruco of North Adams, 1937 Golden Gloves welterweight titleholder and 1938 and 1939 state champion at 160 pounds; William Connolly, 24-year-old Roxbury biffer, who serves as an usher at the Metropolitan Theater; Frank Weeden, 21-year-old Newport, R. I., laborer and state champion at the weight, and Larry Pacino, 19-year-old Roxbury piano mover, who comes from a fighting family, his brothers Patsy and Joe having been star performers in the amateur ranks several years ago.

Harvard Quint Battles to Stay Out of Cellar

Harvard's quintet meets Yale tonight at the Harvard gym in the season's hoop finale. Yale won the first game by the score of 52-42.

Harvard needs a win to keep out of the quad cellar, so Wes Fesler has made two changes in the Harvard lineup which he hopes will add a little more scoring power.

Chet Legg, a senior who has not seen much action, will start at one of the forwards in place of Soph Bill Webber. Although Legg is the shortest man on the squad, he is a good shot

The other change sees Sam White return to center. White won the center position in midseason, but lately Fesler has been starting Soph Ed Rotschild at the pivot spot.

Lew Jenkins Stops Larkin In Round

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Down Texas 'way, where Lew Jenkins hails from, they used to clean up whole settlements with a pair of six-shooters. But they couldn't have done the job more convincingly than did the lightweight from Sweetwater at the Garden last night with a pair of T.N.T.-laden gloves.

Matched with Tippy Larkin, another long, lean kid from over the river in Jersey, Jenkins started cautiously enough. He danced around, flicked a few straight lefts into Larkin's astonished pan, Larwin hadn't expected that. Jenkins wasn't supposed to be a jabber.

Then, abruptly Jenkins fired with both hands. In two minutes and 41 seconds of the first round, Larkin was left flailing around in his own corner like a fish out of water. Face down, he rolled and writhed, kicking up a little whirlpool of dust and looking like a man who's coming up for nothing more than air.

That wham-wham-wham finish, his ninth straight local victory and sixth K. O. should have boosted Jenkins into a lightweight title bout with Champion Lou Ambers Promoter Mike Jacobs thought it should, and set aside May 10 for the bout. Manager Hymie Caplin thought it should, and so informed one and all.

But Al Weill, Ambers' pilot, had other things on his mind, notably the National Boxing Association's recent edict that Ambers, by March 22, must sign for a title defense against Davey Day of Chicago or the lightweight throne will be declared vacant.

Zamperini Flies 6000 Miles For K. of C. Meet

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (AP)—Lou Zamperini, University of Southern California track star, is flying 6000 miles to run one.

He flew to New York to compete in the Knights of Columbus indoor mile at Madison Square Garden tonight. When it's over, he'll hop another plane, planning to be back Sunday afternoon after an absence of a little over 47 hours.

Capacity Crowd To Watch Tilden

NEW YORK, March 9 (INS)—A sellout crowd that will pay $25,000 is assured for professional tennis matches tomorrow night featuring Big Bill Tilden against Don Budge, Finnish Relief Fund officials announced today.

The benefit program includes singles encounters between Tilden and Budge, Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry and Berkeley Bell against Bruce Barnes, to be followed by two doubles matches.

Patty Berg, Hicks Play Golf Final

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Patty Berg of Minneapolis and Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Cal., will meet here today in the finals of the Florida east coast women's tournament.

Miss Berg continued her comeback today by eliminating Miss Clara Callender of Long Beach, Cal., 2 up, in the semifinals. Miss Hicks defeated Mrs. Fred A. Nolan of New Castle, Pa., 4 and 2.

FIRST TIME

Majors Duel Coast Stars

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (AP)—For the first time in baseball history, diamond stars of the major leagues will line up against a picked team from the Pacific Coast League in a game Sunday for the Finnish relief fund.

The battle will be staged at Wrigley Field, home of the Los Angeles Angels, with players from the Chicago Cubs and White Sox, Philadelphia Athletics and Pittsburgh on one side, and members of the Los Angeles, Hollywood, Seattle, Portland and Sacramento clubs, all of whom are training in Southern California.

Connie Mack was named manager of the Major Leaguers, and will have a host of talent to use in the game. Jack Lelivelt, genial manager of the 1939 Coast League champions, Seattle, will guide the Minor Leaguers.

Big Bill Lee, ace of the Cub mound staff, may start the game, with manager Gabby Hartnett catching, and Tony Freitas of Sacramento may get the starting call for the other side.

In the event Mack is unable to reach here, Frankie Frisch, fiery new skipper of Pittsburgh, will handle the squad. With Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox and Hartnett assisting.

Rapides Next Foe

By SAM BROGNA

"Bring on these Rapides," was the cry of the Olympics in the dressing room last night after making short work of their quarter-final match with the Verdun Bulldogs which they scored two straight falls over.

Having successfully closed their short series, Coach Hago Harrington and his still crippled but ever courageous Olympics today turned their attentions to the Lachine Rapides whom they have drawn as opponents for the semi-final round which gets underway tomorrow afternoon at the Boston Garden.

WIN HARD WAY

While the O's were taking care of Verdun, a team which they have had more trouble in licking all season than any other club in the league, Lachine knocked St. Hyacinthe out of the championship race by the same count. Last night's score was Lachine 4, St. Hyacinthe 1.

After the Sabbath clash, both clubs will resume the right to play the winner of the Sherbrooke vs. Valleyfield series Tuesday night in Canada.

This series will also be the best-of-three games.

The Olympics won the hard way in the concluding game against the Bulldogs at the North Station rink.

After spotting their Canadian visitors two goals, they came back in the third and clinched the verdict of a fast tilt.

ALLEN SHOT DOES IT

After Junie Stubbs pushed across the equalizer at 2:37 of the third and final round on a beautiful solo nearly the length of the rink, Junie Allen clinched the game for the locals when he whacked the rubber in after a face-off to the right of the Verdun cage at 14:29. It came immediately after Hudon was sent off for tripping Gerry Desrosiers.

The Boucier brothers, Jean and Connie along with their other line mate, Bob Morin, accounted for both invaders goals. The former hung up the first at 15:05 of the first with Connie and Morin assisting and Connie made it two to the good during the last minute of play of the same game.

Paul Guibord scored the other Olympic marker with but 10 seconds remaining of the opening session and cut down the margin to one goal.

Junpics Face Springfield In Semifinals

The Boston Junior Olympics were to meet the Springfield Braves and the "97" Club of Boston was to encounter the St. Doms of Lewiston, Me., in semi-final round games in the first annual national championship competition sponsored by the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States at the Arena this afternoon.

The Junpics bounced into the semi-final round by whipping a strong Notre Dame hockey club of Waterville, Me., 4-3, in a first round overtime contest. At the same time the "97" club tripped the Rhode Island Scarlets of Providence, 5-4, in a "sudden death" overtime period after 76 minutes of hockey; the Springfield Braves defeated the Atlantic City Sea Hawks, 5-3, and the St. Doms downed the Exchange Brokers of New York, 6-2.

Garibaldi Next For 'The Angel'

The Angel flies back into mat action at the Arena on Wednesday night when he wrestles large Gino Garibaldi in Paul Bowser's weekly tournament.

Garibaldi will be The Angel's fifth straight Boston victim, provided the latter can pin Gino. But the Italian grappler slammed Badman Ernest Hefner last week, and offers The Angel a stern test.

In the semi-final, Danno O'Mahony, the big Irishman, who is making a comeback, goes against Ralph Garibaldi, Gino's brother.

In a special event, Yvon Robert will take on Bobby Managoff. Robert thinks he can climb to the throne again, and Managoff is striving to reach there too.

Erna Andersen Dominates Ice Carnival

Miss Erna Andersen, the Oslo, Norway, figure skating star who is rated along the same lines as Sonja Henie, stole the spotlight at the second night's performance of the 1940 ice show sponsored by the Boston Skating Club at their own clubhouse on Soldiers Field rd., Brighton.

The 24-year-old blonde skater drew more than her share of encores before another near capacity house.

The show continues tonight with double performances on Sunday.

Crimson Matman In Final Round

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 9 (AP)—Lehigh's title defenders, Yale and Princeton led the way into the finals of the 36th Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association championships, each qualifying three men for today's title bouts.

Harvard's W. H. Daughaday gained the referee's decision over Charles E. Rohrer, Penn State in the 165-pound semi-final, while Dick Harding, Princeton, defeated Ted Schoenburg, Harvard, referee's decision in overtime match. In the unlimited class, Lawrence Pickett, Yale, eliminated Tudor Gardiner, Harvard, referee's decision, in a semi-final match.

$5000 Golf Final Played Off Today

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 9 (INS)—Postponed from earlier in the week, the finals of the $5000 international four-ball golf tournament were to be played off here today.

Billy Burke and Craig Wood were pitted against Dick Metz and Ky Laffoon in the 36-hole playoff for the big money.

Blades K. O's Medwick Trade

Cards' Boss Confident 'Ducky' Will Sign

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Life in the camp of the St. Louis Cardinals does not appear to have been upset much by Joe Medwick's disgruntled departure for home.

Manager Ray Blades obviously expects to have his slugging outfielder in the fold shortly, so he is making no particular plans for filling Joe's big shoes. Don Padgett is going right on being a full-time catcher, in other words.

Blades was quick to discredit a tip going the rounds that Medwick might be traded to the Giants for Catcher Harry Danning.

"What good would Danning do us?" he asked. "Besides, if you had your choice of selling Medwick for $200,000 to Brooklyn or trading him for Danning, you would take the money, I think.'

Blades believes his club has an even chance of beating out Cincinnati for the National League pennant, and he couldn't possibly think that if he didn't have Medwick.

"I don't know whether we will beat them," he smiled, "but we're sure going to be in there trying.

"But, after all, they've really got only a two-man pitching staff—Derringer and Walters. Between them they won over half the Reds' victories last year. Can you count on them to do that well again? I don't mean that they don't have other good pitchers. They have. But if either Derringer or Walters falls off a little my staff will be fully a match for their staff, and my outfield is better than theirs."

Blades made it plain that he intends to work his pitchers just as he did last season, despite the criticism for his unorthodox methods. All of his moundsmen are expected to be ready to start games and to do relief duty as often as they are needed, even though this might keep the staff a trifle upset. In this he has the full support of President Sam Breadon and Vice-President Branch Rickey.

They'll Do It Every Time -:- Hatlo

YEH-THERE'S OVER THREE THOUSAND SCREWS IN IT-BUT THIS IS NOTHING-NEXT I'M GOING TO BUILD A CABIN CRUISER THAT WILL SLEEP EIGHT!
BY GEORGE! THAT'S SOME BOAT YOU'VE GOT THERE! YOU SURE ARE HANDY WITH THE TOOLS, HEY-CHARLIE?
OH, YES INDEED! EVERY DOOR IN THIS HOUSE IS FALLING OFF ITS HINGES. THE BATHROOM WINDOW HAS BEEN STUCK FOR THREE WEEKS-I'M AFRAID TO SIT ON THE KITCHEN CHAIR FOR FEAR I'LL GO ON MY EAR - BUT, YES, INDEED-CHARLIE IS VERY HANDY WITH TOOLS
IT MUST BE INTERESTING TO HAVE A HUSBAND WHO IS SO CLEVER WITH SAWS AND HAMMERS AND THINGS - I WISH HENRY HAD SOME SORT OF A HOBBY LIKE THAT GETTING THE LOW-DOWN ON THE GUY WHO IS SO CLEVER AT BUILDING THINGS-THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

has learned from an unimpeachable source . . . And with more than 900 officers taking today's examinations for sergeancies, a new "high" in number of applicants has been reached . . . Police Commissioner Timilty's policy of choosing the men suited for promotion by ability alone has proved a spur to the entire department . . . The forthcoming captains' exam will have a record number of examinees, also, it is predicted . . . So now's the time to "crack the books," boys . . . You can depend absolutely on that "within 60 days" deadline mentioned above.

IN THE COURSE of the Timilty administration, 230 new patrolmen have found places on the force . . . The commissioner has promoted 32 sergeants and 17 lieutenants, and in all these promotions, not one name on the list has been skipped for political reasons or any other kind.

THE BROTHERLY TRIP to Los Angeles undertaken by Henry Cushing, Betsey's popular frere, missed being a catastrophe by good luck—and good medicine. As the son of the late and famous Dr. Cushing, it was not too much to expect that Henry would get the most expert attention in any part of a country where his father's great skill and character had made him loved by fellow-members of the medical profession . . . Such he got, and providentially . . . For, although the dispatches describing his illness from the West Coast did not so state, Henry was stricken by pneumonia.

A YEAR OR TWO AGO the statement that a man had been floored by pneumonia and yet was able to appear four or five days later in a courtroom would have qualified the maker of the statement for a permanent rating alongside Ananias, Baron Munchausen, or as the peer in prevarication of both . . . Sulfanilamide has changed this situation . . . A friends of his mourned father responded to Henry's call for a doctor . . . Before he reached the hospital, several doses of the miracle drug had been applied . . . The patient's soaring temperature went down in a day . . . A few days rest and Henry was able to complete his legal business on behalf of sister Betsey . . . The two have taken a cottage near Beverly Hills for a week, and will be on their way East next Tuesday.

Cards, Yanks Rooks Cross Bats Today

By the Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9—The Cardinals may get only four games with the World Champion Yankees next fall, if St. Louis wins the National League pennant, but it won't be a "short series" the two training tenants of this town have in the spring. The schedule calls for six games, starting today. Both clubs will use rookies plentifully.

PASADENA, Cal.—Jimmy Dykes is optimistic about the hitting of his Chicago White Sox this year. Taft Wright, Moose Solters, Mike Kreevich and Luke Appling have been swatting hard in training sessions. But Dykes has one complaint—the club is losing too many balls that are knocked out of the park.

LAKELAND, Fla. — Frigid weather is delaying the appearance of the veteran Schoolboy Rowe in a game for the Detroit Tigers. He was to have pitched yesterday, but the temperature was too snappy.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The Cincinnati Reds and the Brooklyn Dodgers transferred their Grapefruit League series here today after the daffiness boys had taken a 9-6 ten-inning decision yesterday at Tampa under some of the most dismal playing conditions of the spring. Pete Coscarart, Brooklyn second baseman, was confined with an attack of grippe and a temperature of 101.

AVALON, Cal.—Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs is tickled over the work of Pitcher Bill Lee, who allowed the Regulars only one hit in three innings yesterday in a camp game. Hartnett scheduled another contest today, with Charley Root and Larry French hurling for the Yannigans against Jack Mooty and Dick Bass for the Regulars.

ORLANDO, Fla.—Impressed with the showing of young Sidney Hudson in an intrasquad game, Manager Bucky Harris decided today to start the rookie on the mound for the Washington Senators tomorrow in their first exhibition game against the New York Giants.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—Delayed by a knee operation performed a month ago, Infielder Oscar Grimes has arrived at the Cleveland Indians training camp and will look on for a week or so before beginning strenuous exercise. He walks with a limp, and brought with him his surgeon's instructions to the trainer for treatment of the leg.

Hinkle Considers Stanford Offer

GREEN BAY, Wis., March 9 (AP)—Clarke Hinkle, veteran fullback of the Green Bay Packers, National Professional Football champions, said he was considering an offer to become backfield coach at Stanford University.

"I feel it would be a real break for me," said the former Bucknell star, who has been with the Packers eight seasons during which he has scored 274 points.

Higher!

That's the cry of Johnny Cooney, Boston B's coach, as he puts outfield candidates through practice of reaching for the tall ones in Bradenton, Fla., training camp. The boys who are fighting for outfield berths are Ross, Rowell, Hodgin, Loane, West, Yonker and Bates.
